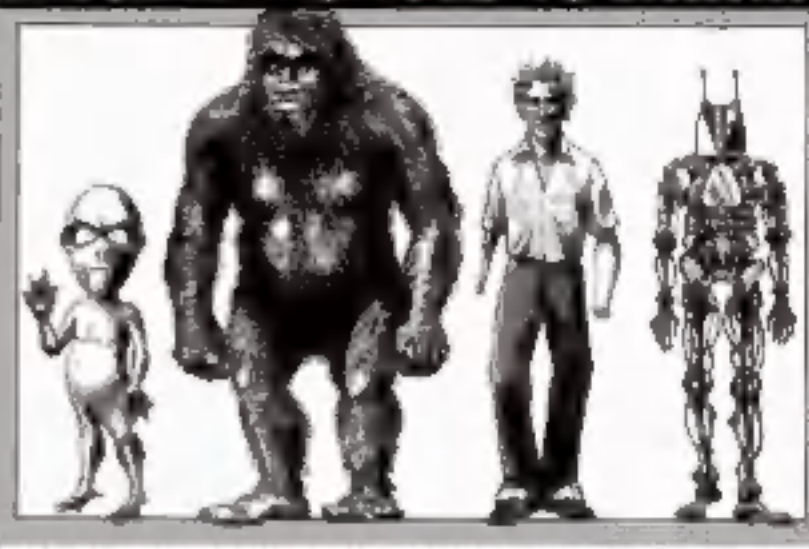
UFO EXPERTS CONFIRM . . . THESE 4 TYPES OF SPACE ALIENS ARE REGULAR VISITORS TO EARTH!



MOST COMMONLY SIGHTED SPACE CREATURES, from left, are small humanoids, hairy Bigfoot aliens, humanlike beings and robots, say experts.

At least four types of space aliens regularly visit the Earth — and they range from a hairy 7-foot-tall beast to a creature that looks almost human, say top UFO researchers.

By NORMA BURT
Weekly World News

"These four types have been identified based on the thousands of cases we have in our files from people reporting close encounters with such entities," said Walter Andrus, international director of the Mutual UFO Network (MUFON).

Here, from the files of MUFON, are the four most common types of aliens:

SMALL HUMANOID — "Their average height is 3 to 4 feet, and their head is extremely large," said Andrus.

"They have two round eyes without pupils, and no ears or protruding nose — just two small holes in the nose area. Their mouth is a slit without lips. The alien is hairless and has no teeth. Its hands have four webbed fingers and no thumb.

"This is the type of alien most commonly reported."

EXPERIMENTAL ANIMAL — "This is the large apelike creature sometimes referred to as Bigfoot," said Andrus.

"It's completely covered with thick, coarse hair, has extremely long arms extending below the knees, sharp, fang-like teeth, and a large spreading nose. It's estimated that they can attain a height of over seven feet and a weight of up to 400 pounds.

that we've put chimpanzees into orbit. Intelligent beings have sent them on an exploratory probe to test the conditions on other planets."

HUMANLIKE — "This type of alien often is almost completely human in size and form. Some are indistinguishable from humans, but most have characteristics that set them apart.

"A typical example was reported in a Wyoming encounter. The alien was about 4-foot-3 and 100 pounds, with bowed legs and no hands. One eleven had a bar coming out of it. Every time the entity waved the bar, something around it moved or disappeared."

ROBOT — Just like our robots, these can have many appearances, said Andrus.

"One of the best descriptions we have is of two identical robot entities encountered by two men in Mississippi in 1973. The robots were mechanical in their movements as they assisted in a medical examination of one of the men.

"Both robots were about five feet tall. They had heads but no necks, and no eyes or noses. But they appeared to have antennas on top of their heads.

"These robots didn't communicate with

Fascinating new study reveals:

SEX MAKES GALS SMARTER!

By JANE SAWYER / Weekly World News

Pssst, ladies: Want to get smarter and more creative without working at it? Try sex!

Studies show that whenever you make love, your body releases a hormone that boosts your intuition, increases your creative ability and helps you perform at your peak in aptitude and intelligence tests, says Elizabeth Davis, author of Women, Sex & Destre.

And if you don't have the opportunity for sex, fantasizing about it works, too!

The body's amazing "love hormone," called oxytocin, is produced by the pituitary gland.

Women commonly report that during lovemaking, or the afterglow, they have moments of creative inspiration, as well as an ability to examine issues in their lives with new clarity and insight, said Mrs. Davis, a women's health care expert.

"This hormone can even increase athletic ability and alleviate depression."

Added Dr. Marshall Klaus, a noted oxytocin researcher: "Based on what I know about oxytocin and Elizabeth Davis' work over the years, the concept she describes in her book, that oxytocin increases creativity and intelligence, is a viable one."

Oxytocin is also released during childbirth, breast-feeding, menstruation and ovulation.

"I've interviewed many women in high level executive positions who said they schedule important business meetings to coincide with their ovulation time," said Mrs. Davis.

"They're taking advantage of the increase in creativity and intuition caused by oxytocin."

She added that some women have even found a way to deliberately release oxytocin at will — simply by fantasizing about sex.

year-old grandfather from St. Helens, England.

"I was sick bald for over half my life — I've now got strong, thick hair."

Mawdsley discovered the miracle baldness cure purely by accident. He read an advertisement for a Japanese hair restorer that contained seaweed and wanted it badly.

But the price, as he put it, "was too dear."

That's when he spotted another advertisement. This one was for an inexpensive seaweed-based plant food called Maxicrop. He put two and two together, bought a bottle and began to spray his head.

"I was too embarrassed to tell anyone what I was doing at first and applied the stuff behind my garden shed," said Mawdsley.

"But after I treated myself for a week people noticed the difference. There was a distinct fuzz all over my head. I didn't care who knew what I was doing then."

Within two months, the fuzz had grown into inch-long strands of real hair, said Mawdsley. And now, after six months of treatment, he says his baldness is completely cured.

"I don't know if the hair would remain if I stopped spraying so I still treat myself every day," he said. "Everyone wants to know what makes the stuff work but I have no answer. It might be the iodine in the seaweed. But when all is said and done, who cares? All that matters to me is that I feel 10 years younger with my beautiful new hair."

Horrifying humiliation for two tourists in Southeast Asia

COPS FORCE COUPLE TO HAVE SEX IN PUBLIC!

By SCOTTY PAUL / Weekly World News

JAKARTA, Indonesia — Two American tourists wrongly accused of adultery were dragged to a public square, stripped naked — and forced to have sex!

"It was either have intercourse in the dirt or take a bullet in the head," said badly shaken Kristin Sullivar of Chicago.

"The police put machine guns to our heads and forced us to make love in the filthy, smelly square — not once, but twice. It was totally humiliating.

"Street beggars and all of the scum of the city were only inches away from us. They were screaming and hollering like it was a soccer game."

Kristin, 25, said she was just talking to a friend from her tour group — Ernest Hallington, 28, of Tulsa, Okla. — in her hotel room when police barged in and accused them of committing adultery a crime in Indonesia.

"Neither of us is married. We had only met on the plane two days earlier," Kristin explained. "We weren't doing anything but chatting about the next day's schedule. But the police wouldn't listen to us."

"It's frightening to think what can happen to you in a foreign country," says Kristin.

'They dragged us from our hotel & stripped us naked,' says Chicago woman

Despite their pleas of innocence, the couple was handcuffed and taken to the local police station. They were beaten with sticks before cops dragged them to the public square. After performing intercourse in public, the nude couple had to walk two blocks back to the police station to get their clothes.

"A police officer came to the hotel about two hours later and apologized for what happened," Kristin told a reporter.

"He explained that the police had barged into the wrong hotel room and arrested us instead of another couple, who were cheating on their spouses.

"He was very apologetic, but it will never erase the shame of what happened.

"God was looking after me, that's for sure," said the 29-year-old auto mechanic from San Jose, Calif. "I lost half my body. I'll never walk again.

"But I've got my hands and my heart. I've got my brain and my life.

"Suddenly I felt a tugging in my back, and then a little tug. I'm not sure what happened next. I remember that I somehow got turned around in the water — and all I could see was blood."

Dyers watched the horrifying attack unfold from a distance of about 15 feet.

He said he instinctively took a picture as the shark swallowed Stinson's leg.

"I knew I had to do something — and there was nothing else I could do."

Dyers said the shark looked as if it were going to swallow his buddy whole. But Stinson miraculously managed to twist around and surge forward before the monster chomped down — taking off both legs and most of his buttocks.

"The shark swam away as fast as it had attacked," Dyers continued. "And there was so much blood in the water that I could hardly see.

"But I managed to get to Stinson and I knew that when I got what was left of him aboard, and he was bleeding so badly that I knew he wouldn't hang on much longer.

"So I used nylon ropes to put a tourniquet on what was left of his body and blasted back to port."

Dyers said he radioed ahead for an ambulance, which was waiting when the men arrived.

Stinson received massive transfusions of blood and underwent emergency surgery to close his wounds, which left him more to repair all the damage, but he's grateful to be alive. "The doctors call me 'miracle man,'" said Stinson, who is now recuperating at home.

"They also say that I can thank Richard for saving my life.

"If he hadn't gotten me to the boat, if he hadn't had the presence of mind to stem the bleeding, I would have died right there in the water.

"I thank God for Richard — and my life — every day."

HOT PANTS!

Show-off slides down banister to impress his buddies — & friction sets his trousers on fire!

By LILA SCHVANDT / Weekly World News

MUNICH, Germany — Life-of-the-party Otto Ehrenberg slid down a banister in his brand-new tuxedo — and was severely burned when the friction caused his pants to burst into flames!

Authorities believe synthetic fibers in Ehrenberg's tuxedo trousers became super-heated as they slid against the wood on banister and spontaneously combusted.

"We've never before seen an instance where friction has caused a fire in clothing," said a spokesman for the Munich Fire Department. "The resulting blaze injured Mr. Ehrenberg badly.

"We recommend that people exercise caution when wearing certain types of synthetics while sliding down banisters or playing rough sports."

Ehrenberg, 35, was attending a gala formal champagne reception when his tragic accident occurred. The man had admittedly consumed eight or nine glasses of champagne and was feeling no pain when he decided to surprise a group of friends by sliding down a sweeping oak banister.

"The banister is three stories high and he had worked up a lot of speed by the time he got to the bottom," the fire department spokesman said. "He said he could feel his pants heating up, but he had no idea they were actually burning.

"By the time he flew off the banister at the bottom of the stairs, his pants were blazing like a three-alarm fire. His friends forced him to roll and they smothered the flames, but by that time he had third-degree burns over most of his lower body."

Ehrenberg's fancy black tuxedo pants contained a new synthetic fabric called Wundertrem which may be the cause of the fire, authorities say.

"We've tested the remains of his pants in our laboratories and it's almost like striking a match," the spokesman said. "Rub them a little and they just burst into flames. The pants were very, very dangerous."

Ehrenberg is recovering at the special burn hospital in Bonn.

Forget fancy perfumes! You can turn any man on — by smelling like pumpkin pie!

RESEARCHERS were stunned to discover that the smell of pumpkin pie turns men into lust-crazed tigers.

Want to wear a scent that will drive your man wild with desire? Dab on a little aroma of pumpkin pie, a top expert advises.

By SUSAN JAMISON
Weekly World News

And if you mix the delicate scent of lavender in with that pumpkin, your sweetheart's lust levels will skyrocket.

"Perfumes have traditionally been ascribed sexual powers, but you're much better off with lavender and pumpkin pie than you are with any of the perfumes," said Dr. Alan Hirsch, head of Chicago's Smell & Taste Research Foundation. "You can definitely use this information to stimulate the opposite sex."

In a history-making study, Dr. Hirsch, a neurologist, and his colleagues hooked 31 male volunteers to meters that measured penile blood flow. They then exposed the men to various odors, including the scents of perfumes, flowers, fruits, foods and spices.

The researchers compared male response to various scents and found out that food beats out expensive perfumes every time.

"The No. 1 odor was a combination of lavender and pumpkin pie, which increased penile blood flow by 40 percent," Dr. Hirsch told Weekly World News. "The No. 2 was doughnuts and black licorice, which increased it by 30 percent. Then came pumpkin pie and doughnuts, 20 percent, and orange, 19 percent."

Other top turn-ons: Lavender and doughnuts, 19 percent; black licorice, 12; black licorice and cola, 12; doughnuts and cola, 11; buttered popcorn, 9; vanilla, 9; pumpkin pie, 9; lavender, 8; musk, 8; cola, 7; doughnuts, 7; peppermint, 6; cheese pizza, 5; roasting meat, 5; cinnamon buns, 4; green apple, 4; rose, 4; strawberry, 4; baby powder, 3; floral 3; chocolate, 3; grapefruit, 3; cranberry, 2.

Dr. Hirsch says he can't explain the dramatic effects of certain food odors on the male sex drive, but he has a few theories.

"Maybe odors act on the brain. They cause changes in brain waves, which in turn affect the sexual response," he said. "Or perhaps odors affect that part of the brain that causes erections," he said.

"Or perhaps odors reduce anxiety and remove sexual inhibitions."

Whatever the cause of food scents' incredible power over the male libido, it obviously represents the purest smell of "sex-ess" for gals on the make.

"All I can say is, my wife took up baking after the study," Dr. Hirsch said.

FIRED EXEC FAKED GOING TO WORK FOR 2 YEARS — TO FOOL HIS WIFE!

HARD-LUCK executive Joe [illegible]

By DANIEL RYAN, [illegible]

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — A top executive who couldn't bear to tell his wife he had been fired lived a lie for almost two years, pretending to go to his office every day — until he sank $700,000 in debt!

After losing his high-salaried position as research and development director of a large electronics firm, 40-year-old father of three Joseph Grodeman continued to live in the fast lane just as though nothing had happened.

"I had only meant to carry on the charade until I got another job," Joe testified in bankruptcy court. "But everything got out of control. I'm afraid it just got away from me."

Before I knew it I was drowning in a sea of debts I had no way of paying off. My family was always so proud of me. I had given them everything they wanted.

"When I lost my job I just couldn't tell them. I didn't want to see the look of disappointment in their faces. I realize now that I never gave them any credit for loving me for myself but only for my success."

Joe's tragic double life charade began when he was fired in a dispute with the firm's top boss over the idea of a badly needed government contract for a new short-range missile guidance system.

"I decided not to break the bad news until I got another position," Joe said. "I was absolutely confident I'd be snapped up by one of the firms in Silicon Valley. I really thought I was about the hottest property in the job market they was I ever seeing.

Every morning just as he had always done in the past, Joe kissed his wife Sally goodbye and headed off for the office in his sleek Jaguar sedan. He'd play out all day then return home at the evening.

"I thought I could pull it off," Joe said. "I was paying for everything with my credit cards and a second mortgage on the house. But the weeks turned into months and I got deeper and deeper in debt.

"Finally my creditors got after me. They found out I was unemployed and that was the end of the line. I had no choice but to file for bankruptcy. The shame of that was hard to deal with but telling my family about the lie was the hardest thing I've ever had to do."

Then like a bolt out of the blue, Joe was offered an executive position by [illegible] bankruptcy [illegible] to grant him the time he needs to begin paying off his debts.

"Because of me, we lost everything," Joe said.

But Sally and the children stood by me all the way. Now they're willing to start all over again. They say as long as we're all together, we're okay."

He was too embarrassed to admit he had lost his job!

Pet rat saves family from blazing inferno!

TORQUAY, England — Fido the rat is being hailed as a hero after the feisty pet rodent saved a family from burning to a crisp in a roaring house fire!

When an electric heater sparked the blaze in the Dunkley family's two-story home, Fido the rat perked his way out of his cage on the first floor and sprang to action.

Instead of running to safety, the tiny hero darted past the flames and climbed up 15 stairs to the bedroom where single mom Lisa Dunkley and her children Tim, 7, and Sue, 5, were sleeping.

Another flaw sprinted furiously at the door until Lisa woke up. Rousing the girls, the terrified mother quickly escaped the smoke-filled house with Fido and her children in tow.

"They say rats desert sinking ships, but our Fido's a real hero," grateful Lisa later told reporters.

WIFE DUMPS HUBBY —

LOVING HUBBY Dylan Simpson gives wife Francie a foot massage in this snapshot taken by a friend shortly after the couple tied the knot because he treated her like a queen!

By JUNE SAWYER / Weekly World News

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Heartbroken housewife Francie Simpson has dumped her adoring hubby Dylan after six years of marriage — because the lovesick sap treated her like a queen!

Doting Dylan waited on his exasperated mate hand and foot, washing and ironing her clothes, whipping up three hot meals a day and wowing her with expensive jewels and furs. And in the end, his undying devotion drove her screaming into the street.

"I know folks will think I'm a fool for leaving him, but all that kindness just drove me stark, raving mad," groaned flustered Francie, 29. "He loved me so much he worked like a slave to keep me happy and then started manicuring my toenails for me. All of a sudden I couldn't stand it anymore. I let out a shriek and ran out the door, and I haven't been back there since."

The bizarre saga of the tenderhearted hubby and his embroidled misery began in 1991 when the love-starved singles met at a friend's Fourth of July party in Pittsburgh.

MAN EVOLVED FROM THE COMMON FLEA!

By BEATRICE DEXTER

NAIROBI, Kenya — Mankind isn't descended from the apes at all, an expert says. The real truth is that the human race evolved from fleas!

Anthropologist Dr Paul Delatierre claims that the hopping insects mutated more than 8 million years ago, producing a separate strain of fleas which developed increasingly human traits.

"We have found fossil remains that show that some fleas grew larger when they were living on the hides of dinosaurs and they developed longer and more powerful hind legs," said Dr Delatierre, who is doing research work here on his favorite subject.

legs disappeared and their middle legs lengthened and developed hand-like appendages.

"Meanwhile, their cranums were enlarging, indicating rapid development of a brain.

"At this happened, the fleas' faces flattened out, developing clear mouth and nose structures."

Dr Delatierre's theories have met with opposition and even derision among fellow anthropologists, but the scientist is confident of his findings.

He says he's found a hill digs in Kenya and shared drawings of the fossils with WORLD NEWS readers.

"After a few million years of development, the new flea species stood 5 feet tall, had human-like hands and feet and was able to make and use tools," said the scientist, a 73-year-old author and professor.

"They were beginning to [illegible] shells like boxes and you can see that a spinal column was developing rapidly inside their bodies as the outside softened and became flesh-like."

The flea-man had totally developed into a human by about 2 million B.C., Dr Delatierre says, although early humans at that time still hopped about like fleas when they were frightened.

Over the next centuries the primitive humans spread [illegible] ushering the first civilizations.

"Clearly, some of the early humanoids split off and developed into what today are the apes and monkeys," Dr Delatierre said.

"But to say that we came from the apes is ridiculous. Anyone who bothers to check out the fossil finds can see that humans evolved directly from the [illegible], but

WORLD'S UGLIEST MODEL MAKES $815,000 A YEAR!

She's fat, she's flat & she's 5-ft.-4!

By BEATRICE DEXTER, World News Service

CHICAGO — Belinda Hearnia is making a fortune as a top model — because she's ugly as sin!

AGENT Donald Swift.

The Chicago model makes over $500 an hour posing for ad photos, making TV commercials and appearing in the movies even though she is short, fat, homely and flat chested.

"She makes average girls feel pretty," says Donald Swift, the model's agent. "That's why companies are waiting in line to hire her.

"They use her to show what you're going to look like if you don't use their products. She's making a good living representing what women don't want to be, rather than being an ideal female like other models.

Twenty one year old Belinda stands only 5 feet 4 in her stocking feet, but she tips the scale at a hefty 218 pounds. Her measurements are 42-36-14 and her shoe size is 7, Swift says.

Yet the homely brunette made over $815,000 in 1987 working on soap commercials, breath freshener spots, promotions for fitness clubs and toothpaste commercials. She was hired for bit parts in seven Hollywood movies and scored a minor role in an Italian movie. Newspapers across the country used her photo as the "before" gal in weight loss ads.

"I love my work," says Belinda, who lives in a cozy condo with her two dogs and a calico cat. "It doesn't bother me that I'm not portrayed as glamorous because let's face it, I'm not.

A LOT OF WOMAN! Belinda Hearnia hams it up for the camera. The hefty model earns $500 an hour.

"I decide to retire I'm going to spend that money getting myself fixed up. I'll get collagen shots to plump up the fat sucked out of my hips and thighs."

Belinda says no one ever recognizes her on the street. But in the advertisements she's a star.

Companies hiring corpses to replace live workers

WANTED DEAD OR ALIVE? This security guard may or may not be a corpse. But guys won't know for sure

By ANWAR BASARIAH / World News

SINGAPORE — Top companies throughout the Far East are saving millions of dollars by using a cheap new breed of worker: Corpses!

The dead employees are specially processed to prevent decay, then dressed and used for everything from movie extras to security guards. They are working out so well that experts worry lifeless laborers will soon replace billions of working folk around the world.

"These people don't need paychecks or rest rooms — and they're dying to work"

"For a small initial investment, companies can have at their disposal a whole assortment of types — children, old folks, fat men or shapely women — and use them to fill a variety of needs," says Atal Bakht, head of the employment agency Departed Personnel of New Delhi, India. "There are no salary disputes, costly benefits, health insurance fees or labor problems.

"Of course, dead workers are not suitable for all types of jobs, but it's surprising how many positions they can fill successfully."

Bakht and other executives in the field say dead workers are easy to come by. They are paid in suppliers by relatives or purchased from city morgues glad to get rid themselves of unclaimed bodies for a small fee.

As employees, they are ideal for jobs which require looking good, but not necessarily doing anything.

In security work, for example, a deficient man can be dressed in a police uniform and positioned near a window or glass door where he is visible to passersby, leaving the impression that a facility or building is under guard.

Women can use dead males as "escorts" that ride next to them in their automobiles, offering protection and peace of mind. Men can use good-looking female corpses to escort them to social functions, business meetings or parties.

"Every day we think of new uses for them."

But while the new trend is being greeted with enthusiasm by cost-cutting execs all over the world, labor experts worry that it might put billions of living laborers out of jobs.

"These dead people don't need paychecks or rest rooms," said Anatole Kopansky, an economist who specializes in labor trends. "And there's no endless supply — they're literally dying to work. Living laborers can't compete with them.

LET'S TEACH COLLEGE COEDS TO BE GREAT HOUSEWIVES

I read something the other day that plewsed the punch out of me — Future Housewives of America clubs are sweeping college campuses all over the United States!

That's right, killer dials everybody are forgetting all about the women's liberation garbage we've had stuffed down our throats for so many years — and they're getting back to good, old fashioned values.

This year's crop of college gals are holding Tupperware parties trading cake recipes and chatting about the best ways to get those tough stains out of clothes.

Top-notch schools like UCLA, Missouri and Ohio State are sponsoring weekly bake-off contests for their coeds. Rutgers and Georgia Tech are letting their top cheerleaders serve up the pep-ball team's lunch orders.

This, my friends, is the best news I've heard in many years. Maybe we're finally back on track to return the United States to the great country it used to be.

I gotta tell you, fellas, things have been going downhill fast ever since women's lib hit the scene back in the 1960s and gals started running around burning their bras and getting [illegible] on campuses [illegible] while women's lib [illegible] with a bunch of [illegible] women who wished they'd been born boys.

But it seemed as our country as a whole was becoming more and more screwed up, it was up to us men to take charge and do something about it.

I'm sure as many gals are interested in turning themselves in the right direction now all the college libraries should stock up on videotapes of the old Donna Reed Show.

That show is still the perfect example of how to be a good mother and wife. But those hairy-armed women's libbers have been able to keep it off TV for 30 years and a lot of today's ladies have never seen it.

I say give college girls a big dose of Donna Reed the first thing every morning and before you know it we'll have a nation full of happy homemakers baking apple pies and driving the neighborhood kids back and forth to kindergarten.

...& Donna Reed should be their role model!

ED ANGER'S POLL

I agree with all that college gals should concentrate on learning to bake and sew — in fact, they'd be perfect housewives like the great Donna Reed.

I think we should get on the whole Tupperware bandwagon — it's a great way to [illegible]

ARE YOU A PUSHOVER?

WORLD NEWS SPECIAL EDITION!

Are you a pushover? Here's a simple quiz that lets you know if people manipulate you too easily — followed by an expert's tips on what you can do about it.

INSTRUCTIONS: Score 0 for each statement that is definitely or somewhat untrue of you. Score 1 for statements that are sometimes true, and 2 for statements that are usually or entirely true.

1. I accept without complaint the way my assistant does things.
2. Somehow I end up with more than my share of extra work.
3. My friends or co-workers treat me down with gripes and problems.
4. When family members are on panel, I do the jobs they hate.
5. I buy name brands even though I've never tried the generic or store brands.
6. Salesmen persuade me to buy more than I really wanted.
7. I don't turn down requests for a favor even when it's inconvenient.
8. I feel people regard their "personal" as my credible master.
9. I'm an easy target for people asking for donations.
10. Co-workers find it easy to pass off some of their work to me.
11. I don't take all the vacation time coming to me because I'm afraid my boss will think I'm not dedicated enough.
12. Unexpected visitors/their welcome. I grin and bear it.
13. I'm reluctant to ask favors.
14. At parties I feel obliged to help the host/hostess.
15. If I have yet together I'm reluctant to suggest where to go or what to do.
16. When I'm dissatisfied with a repair job I don't complain.
17. If I'm in a long-moving section and someone lights up a cigarette rather than complain, I'll move elsewhere.
18. When I'm kept waiting by slow service at a restaurant I just quietly put up with it.
19. When I lunch with co-workers they try to stick me with the check.
20. When I'm watching TV and suddenly changes the channel, I don't protest even when it's one of my favorite shows.

SCORING:

0-12: Odds are you're no pushover. You probably have little trouble saying "no" to unreasonable requests, and you stick up for your rights.

13-28: Although you're probably no pushover, there's a danger you could become one because you often cannot bring yourself to say "no" when you should. In some situations, you let people take advantage of you. Try to be more assertive.

29-40: You're probably too easygoing, and too easily manipulated by others. You don't have to be such a "nice guy" all the time. You could stand up for yourself more.

If your score makes you feel you're being manipulated by others too often, psychologist Robert Shaw, who developed this quiz, offers these suggestions.

1. Practice saying "no" at a salesman, giving him a persuasive pitch for "something you can't refuse." The listen — but you have saying, "No, I don't want any."

2. Experiment with different ways of saying "no." For example, "Gee, that sounds like fun, but I'm really sorry that I have another engagement that night."

3. Role-play difficult situations with a friend or speak your lines into a tape recorder. For example, you could have your friend play the role of your boss, giving you a chore that somebody else is supposed to handle.

Practice walking up to him and saying calmly "I understand you need this job done, but I really don't think I'm the person who should be doing it."

Keep practicing it until you're comfortable with it.

PSYCHIATRISTS & WITCH DOCTORS HAVE A LOT IN COMMON

If the shrink had a bone through his nose, would you take his advice?

Psychiatrists and witch doctors are "first cousins," a top psychiatrist declares. . . . say experts

"It's true," says noted author Dr. E. Fuller Torrey.

"The similarities in techniques used by witch doctors and psychiatrists far outweigh the differences."

And psychologist Dr. Stanley Krippner — who's made an in-depth study of witch doctors' practices — points out striking similarities between the African tribal medicine men and their counterparts in the psychiatric profession.

● Both psychiatrists and their witch doctor counterparts work at correcting their clients' bad behavior.

● Witch doctors and psychiatrists both prescribe medication.

● Another procedure they have in common is family therapy.

Native healers work with the entire family, just as psychotherapists do.

● Both psychiatrists and native healers analyze their patients' dreams as a means of psychotherapy.

● Native healers work with herbs, remedies which correspond to the drug therapies that are used by a lot of psychiatrists.

● They even use an amazingly similar method of curing an age-old problem: faith healing.

Witch doctors in Nigeria do a special bone dog around the offending child's leg, said Dr. Krippner. "If the child gets the bad, the dog gets up set to the moderate trouble loudly and wakes up the youngster," he explained.

And in our own society, some psychiatrists recommend that their writers sleep on a special pad that sounds a loud alarm when it gets wet, Dr. Krippner observed.

...so comrades could carry extra rocks back to Earth!

MAROONED: Soviet hero Konstantin Mikarov was left behind on the moon

A young Russian cosmonaut was abandoned by his three comrades — and left to die on the moon's surface!

Weekly World News has learned that just over eight years ago, on April 16, 1990, civilian engineer Konstantin Mikarov was left behind so that dozens of containers of moon rocks could be brought back to Earth.

The cosmonauts' escape module was so grossly overloaded that it wouldn't have been able to lift off the moon's surface unless it was significantly lightened.

Mikarov, a 29-year-old father of three making his first journey into space, was deemed less valuable to the mission than rocks and he was left behind — deserted by his comrades and forsaken by his country.

The shocking details of a top-secret report on the coal-blooded act were turned over to the NEWS by Leonid Shatalov, who was ousted as deputy minister of space following the breakup of the Soviet Union.

The report also showed NASA space experts who believed the Soviet Union had lacked the ability to carry out a manned moon landing and return.

"We knew they had the know-how but we had absolutely no idea they had the hardware — the rocket power the lander and the lunar ascent stage — to even attempt a moon mission," a NASA official admitted. "We were all one of the materials could be used in making rocket fuel to build a permanent space station on the moon. It could be used ... Shatalov explained. It would make building the space station much easier. But the mission never should have been attempted.

LEONID SHATALOV: former deputy minister of space

"It was as NASA believed, well beyond Russia's capability to carry out such a mission without a disaster of one kind or another.

"The fools who destroyed the U.S.S.R. will deny what happened. But the report I hand to you proves they are liars. A brave hero of the people was left to die on the moon. What terrible loneliness he must have suffered!"

Before the other cosmonauts abandoned him, Comrade Konstantin was told that a rescue mission had already been launched that would arrive within a matter of days. He would be home with his wife and children.

But that was a lie. The Soviet Union was already crumbling. We had no more rockets to send to the moon. Moreover, it was feared that America would turn its back on us if it learned of our terrible crime. It was agreed that Comrade Konstantin would be forgotten and not spoken of again.

"Eight years have passed since Comrade Konstantin was sacrificed. The moon dust is great — radiation forgotten. But I will not allow the dead hero to be forgotten.

"It is time the world learned the truth. That is why I make this report."

Sex Omelet turns duds into STUDS!

By TANYA GROOER / Weekly World News

Caterer Sandy Kalton says she's invented a foolproof love food — a tasty treat called a "passion omelet" that makes men red-hot and ready just minutes after they eat it!

The pretty Savannah, Ga., gourmet cook says her miracle breakfast dish contains ingredients designed to rev up a man's sex drive and swears it's worked wonders on every guy who's tried it.

"My husband Tony goes nuts every time I serve him a passion omelet — he's like a tiger for the rest of the day," Sandy says proudly. "And every one of my friends who's made one for her man has told me afterward that it worked like a miracle."

Sandy says she invented the delectable sex dish one Sunday morning while trying to cheer up her husband, who was feeling a little down.

She decided to make a sweet treat that was nourishing and delicious — and threw in a few known sex stimulants as well.

"Foods like cinnamon, and honey contain chemicals that act on men's testosterone levels," says Sandy, a trained nutritionist. "The zinc in pumpkin seeds, for example, goes directly to the prostate gland which contains 10 times the amount of zinc found in most other organs of the body.

TONY is a real tiger since he started eating "passion omelets."

Sizzling egg recipe makes men hot to trot, says lady chef

In my sweet omelet, hoping it would perk Tony up.

"He thought it was delicious, but the best thing was that about a half hour after he finished it, he felt more romantic than he'd felt in months.

"I was stunned at the effect it had on his sex drive."

Sandy says that since she invented her love omelet two years ago, she's shared the recipe with dozens of delighted women.

And now she's agreed to share the secret of her success with the readers of Weekly World News!

That topless waitress has bounced back into my life!

AMERICA'S MOST OUTSPOKEN ADVICE COLUMNIST

RICH in St. Louis

Dear Dotti: What can a happily married man say to a naked woman who just won't leave him alone? I'm not talking about my dear wife — I'm talking about this woman who is trying to drive me crazy.

WORLD NEWS SPECIAL EDITION!

MORE a year ago I went out with my buddies to a topless bar and our waitress was a real knockout. She'd have even been sexy wearing a parka — but she was naked from the waist up.

My friends kept kidding me about being married and one thing led to another and the jest seduced me. Fortunately, I came to my senses and quit seeing her. Everything was fine until a couple of weeks ago. There was a knock on my door and there she stood — an short. Just short shorts. I gasped and slammed the door before my wife could see. The next night, she came again and luckily I answered the door. Now she drops by about once a week, and one of these days my wife will open the door. How can I get this woman to stay away — or at least keep her shirt on when she comes calling? I'm in big trouble. — Rich in St. Louis

Dear Rich: You're damn right you're in big trouble. You latched yourself onto a serious head case. Next time the bond shows up on your front porch, call the cops. They'll cart her off and all you'll have to do is explain to wifey that some crazy stripper is chasing you.

How in the world can I help my rotten son?

MARTHA in Wilmington

Dear Dotti: I'm at the end of my rope. Our 18-year-old son is about to drive us crazy. He was the last of our seven kids and should have been the most stable and best prepared for life. Instead, he's been in trouble with the law, school and the neighbors. Last week I found out he hasn't stayed with his girlfriend for weeks. He's been sleeping in his car and showering at a gym. Now he's threatening to run away. I'm at my wit's end. What can I do? — Martha in Wilmington

Dear Martha: What do you mean he's not a bad kid? He's a rotten brat. Some shrinks say the youngest kid in the family and gets an overdose of attention which causes problems later on in life. Could be, but your son is not a loser. That's it, only one out of seven aren't bad.

Dear Dotti: I'm a newlywed with a very big problem — I think my handsome hubby is an queer as a $3 bill. The clincher came when my girlfriend told me she had seen him and another man holding hands in a bar. She said they were making kissing gestures with their lips — just like a lovesick guy would do to a girl. I'm sick about it, yet he refuses to live within the limits of society. What more can we do? He dotes all our efforts to help him and has moved out. — Martha in Wilmington

WENDY in Texas

My new hobby's dentist is a real tooth fairy!

Dear Dotti: I'm a newlywed with a very big problem — I think my handsome hubby is as queer as a $3 bill. The clincher came when my girlfriend told me she had seen him and another man holding hands in a bar. She said they were making kissing gestures with their lips — just like a lovesick guy would do to a girl. I'm sick about it, yet he refuses to live within the limits of society. What more can we do? He dotes all our efforts to help him and has moved out. — Martha in Wilmington

Dear Martha: What do you mean he's not a bad kid? He's a rotten brat. Some shrinks say the youngest kid in the family and gets an overdose of attention which causes problems later on in life. Could be, but your son is not a loser. That's it, only one out of seven aren't bad.

I bought elevator shoes — & still got the shaft!

Dear Dotti: My heart is broken and especially couldn't get it back together again. I fell in love with a girl at church. She is beautiful and has an office like mine visiting a couple times a month when we were dating and has kept it up since we got married. The problem is: How do I get rid of the story? If I dump him outright will the cruelty drive him even deeper into his sadness? Help! — Wendy in Texas

Dear Wendy: It looks like your wimpy hubby and his dentist pal pulled a fast one on you. Sounds like he married you so no one would find out his dirty little secret. Tell the little pansy to stay out of your life. If he cries and pleads tough luck. He should have thought about getting caught when he started running around with the tooth fairy.

CONFIDENTIALS

Dear Tied Down in Chicago: Now that he's caught you the rope, tie the knot.

Dear Wondering in Richland: One pair leads three of a kind in that kind of a game.

Dear Billy in Rochester: What happens if you continue the tack?

Dear Doubting in Lansing: If he does, he'll be the first one who didn't.

Dear Curious in Fargo: All guys who carry garters aren't sissies — it just seems that way.

Dear Puzzled in Topeka: Thirteen is both too young — and too often — to marry. Tell grandpa to hang up.

Dear Clumsy in Saginaw: Try sleeping on the floor — there's less of a fall involved.

Dear Sorry in Louisville: Apologies at once. You were lucky in the rock room.

Dear Duper in Spokane: It won't make you high. It won't make your teeth fall out.

Dear Chester in Baltimore: Let's face it — a creep like you doesn't deserve a second chance. You make me sick.

How in the world can I help my rotten son?

Dear Dotti: I'm at the end of my rope. Our 18-year-old son is about to drive us crazy. He was the last of our seven kids and should have been the most stable and best prepared for life. Instead, he's been in trouble with the law, school and the neighbors. Last week I found out he hasn't stayed with his girlfriend for weeks. He's been sleeping in his car and showering at a gym. Now he's threatening to run away. I'm at my wit's end. What can I do? — Martha in Wilmington very clear that she wanted a man she could at least look straight in the eye. I'm no freak — I'm just short and a lot of girls like short men, this one didn't. But I figured she was worth it so I bought elevator shoes. They really made me look taller and, if you didn't notice, I was standing on blocks of wood. You'd think I was a hero — I didn't like it, but I wore the stupid shoes and took her out a few times. Everything was great until she dumped me over for a stewed off creep who's barely 5-foot-2. And he doesn't even wear elevator shoes! I'm hurt and mad. What can I do? — Teddy in Dallas

Dear Teddy: Pick on somebody your own size! Or face up to the reality that the gal hates your guts. It's obvious this gal doesn't mind pint-sized pals. You just don't measure up to her other requirements.

MAN ELECTROCUTED BY LIGHTNING BUGS!

Bank robber with poor handwriting walks away empty-handed because tellers couldn't read holdup note!

PEARL RIVER, N.Y. — Like a comic scene from a Woody Allen movie, an impatient bandit disguised with a plastic bag over his head left a bank empty-handed because a teller couldn't figure out what he wanted.

The robbery began soon after the kooky crook walked into the Marine Midland Bank and handed an unidentified bank teller a note.

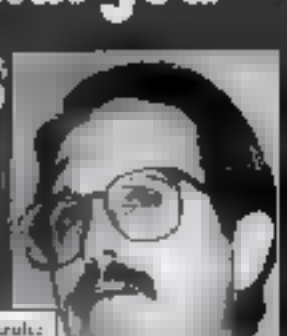
Cops said the teller to the plastic bag because she thought the man might have a skin problem or a burn.

She was puzzled by the note he handed her and consulted with a co-worker.

By the time they and other workers figured out that "I've got a gun" was part of the message, the robber had left without saying a word or showing a note surrender.

In the movie Take The Money and Run, the Woody Allen character botches a bank robbery when a literal-minded teller points out his stickup note spells

SCIENTISTS WARN: Supercharged swarms moving our way at 50 miles a week — and NOTHING can stop them!



Dr. Luis Dr. Julio Gonzalez — last experimenting with African fireflies — the largest and most powerful variety of the common lightning bug — [illegible]

By LAURA DeBRUS
Weekly World News

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — An insect specialist was electrocuted by a swarm of African lightning bugs that escaped from a lab and authorities say it's only a matter of time before the killer fireflies make their way into the United States and murder more tragic victims — in their own backyards!

New breed of firefly gives off 600 volts of electricity

"We haven't faced a threat like this since a swarm of killer bees escaped from a Brazilian laboratory in the late 1950s and I assure you, the danger is real," said Dr Reynaldo Diaz, one of 30 insect specialists who have been tracking the movement of the lightning bugs from their headquarters in Mexico City.

"Unlike their ordinary cousins, African lightning bugs are an inch and a half long and extremely aggressive. They pack a charge equal to that of the electric eel — some 600 volts — and can flatten a grown man with a single shock.

"When two or more of them strike, your chances of surviving are quite literally slim to none. In layman's terms, these bugs take no prisoners. They shock to kill."

The death of Dr Gonzalez in June saddened but didn't surprise his colleagues who knew the lightning bugs were a disaster just waiting to happen.

Dr. Gonzalez was responsible for bringing some 3,000 of the insects from Ghana to Managua in 1987 and had been warned that they were breeding too fast to keep under control.

By March Dr Gonzalez had an estimated 300,000 bugs housed in his Managua lab. According to reports, the expert was hoping to find a way to harness the bugs' electrical power when a security guard accidentally released the entire colony into the surrounding countryside.

"Dr Gonzalez apparently tried to lure the bugs back to the lab but they were agitated and attacked him ruthlessly," explained Dr Diaz.

"The next day after they escape their electrical charge and because we found over 200 dead fish floating on the lake, we knew they were already on the move.

"At that rate they will threaten Mexico by winter and cross the border into the United States next spring. Millions of people are in great danger," he continued. "And there is no way to stop them."

Dr Diaz explained that the bugs are unable to make a positive identification until they obtained dental records.

"Our prime concern now is finding and eradicating as many of these bugs as we can," said Dr Diaz. "We know they're moving north at a rate of 40 to 50 miles a week.

Women feel more pain than men, say experts

WASHINGTON — It's official: Women feel pain more than men do. But they also cope with it better than men, scientists say.

"Most studies show that females are more sensitive to pain than males," Kaveh Berkley, a Florida State University neuroscientist, told a conference on pain and gender sponsored by the National Institutes of Health.

"Females are more ready to identify pain than males and more ready to deal with it."

She and others at the conference said that although women feel pain more, they handle the emotional consequences of pain better than men do.

MONKS SAW UFOs 800 YEARS AGO!

By MICHAEL TODD Weekly World News

Incredibly, UFOs terrorized England during the 12th, 13th and 14th centuries — and among the astonished eyewitnesses were monks and clergymen.

What's more, the descriptions of UFOs in the Middle Ages closely match eyewitness accounts of modern-day sightings, say researchers.

"Many of the medieval cases are especially credible because they were reported by monks at abbeys," said Hayden Howes, a UFO researcher.

"Not only were these men known for their honesty, but they were scholars — the most believable witnesses of their era."

Those fascinating descriptions of UFO sightings in medieval England were cited by Howes and Brad Steiger, coauthors of the book, UFO Mysteries Extraordinary.

• On March 28, 1185, a "globe of fire" was seen moving back and forth across the skies.

The eerie sighting was documented by Nicholas Trivet, a noted historian of the Middle Ages.

• In 1254, a group of monks at St. Albans Abbey spotted what they described as a "ship" in the sky.

"The description of a spacecraft as a ship is entirely logical — they were simply describing an unknown object in terms they were familiar with," Howes said.

• In 1290, the abbot and monks of Bylond Abbey in north Yorkshire reported seeing a flat silver disk fly over the abbey. They reported the object struck terror in those who saw it.

• In 1290, a moving light in the sky descended and floated over the Abbey of Durham, bathing out rays of light and terrorizing many people who observed it.

"This was undoubtedly a UFO, probably a shuttle craft that was exploring the area with a searchlight," Howes said.

• On November 4, 1290, in Uxbridge, a pale gray "pillar of fire" soared slowly across the evening sky.

"A brilliant gold flame was shooting from one end of it, suggesting the exhaust of a space vehicle," Howes said.

"It was cigar-shaped — the second most commonly observed UFO shape observed today, after the saucer-shaped UFOs."

Man wins game of chicken the hard way

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va. — A game of "chicken" turned ugly when a man was struck by a train and thrown 70 feet into the air.

Cops say David Flannery, broke, each trying to outlast the other and not be the first to jump off.

Flannery won. He was taken to Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown, Md.,

Why won't my dead sister leave me alone?

Dear Serena: My sister and I didn't get along very well when she was alive and the situation has actually gotten worse since she died.

Now she comes to me in my dreams and nags me worse than ever. Since she's not physically here, I can't fight back. If something doesn't give, I'll go insane, Serena. Please help. — Desperate in Las Vegas

Dear Desperate: I contacted your dead sister in the hereafter and after a long conversation, she agreed to get off your back. She also wanted you to know that she never meant any harm with her nagging. It's just that she loved you so much that she wanted the best for you — and nagging was her way of making sure you got it!

Dear Serena: I bought a crystal ball at a yard sale a few weeks ago and have been trying to use the future to it ever since. I know it sounds strange, but all I see is an image of a man and a woman holding cash in their hands. Can you give me any insight? I'm totally confused. — Puzzled in Denver

Dear Puzzled: The man and woman you see are going to make you rich. You'll meet them within the next two weeks and if you are smart, you'll follow their instructions to the letter!

Dear Serena: My mother passed away earlier this year and I miss her very much. Can you tell me if she is at peace? — Heartbroken in Phoenix

Dear Heartbroken: You know as well as I do that your mother was a convicted murderer. And even though I'd like to tell you otherwise, I must tell you that she is paying for her misdeeds in the hereafter.

Dear Serena: Does my wife know what I did? I kind of hope she does know, because that makes me think she's losing her sex drive. But if she doesn't know yet, when will she do it if she ever does find out? I'm worrying myself to death over this. Can you ease my mind? — Guilty in Pasadena

Dear Guilty: She doesn't know but there's no way you can keep her from finding out. She's not going to leave you, but she is going to be very angry. Be on your best behavior for a few weeks to get back on her good side ... and NEVER again take naked pictures of her while she's asleep.

Dear Serena: Will my son ever get married? He dates lots of girls, but nothing ever comes of it. He's 33 and I'm wondering whether he's going to be a bachelor all his life. — Thoughtful Mother in Wichita

Dear Thoughtful: He will be married October 17 to the girl he's dating now. Don't push him to have a big wedding. If you do, he'll throw a fit and have a private ceremony and not invite any family.

GERMAN sub had slipped in close to the American coast to land spies, say experts

GHOSTS HAUNT WRECK OF NAZI SUB FOUND OFF CAPE COD!

Scuba diver Kevin Shorter was guided to the sunken remains of a German U-boat by the eerie tapping of the restless spirits sealed inside!

By KELLY TURNER

Staff Writer

"I couldn't believe my ears when I heard the tapping," Shorter said. "And I couldn't believe my eyes when I saw where the tapping was emitting from. Then I couldn't even trust my sight."

U-1228 was on a secret mission to land Nazi spies on U.S. soil when it was sent to the bottom of the Atlantic off Cape Cod by a Navy bomber on Oct. 28, 1944, for reasons, the U-boat, [illegible] class sub, which rests about 30 feet from its keel to the top edge of its conning tower, rested uneven for almost a half-century in a range of 60 feet of water.

Kevin Shorter of Boston, scuba buddies had stayed undiscovered for another 50 years.

"The sounds I heard resonating through the sub's hull will haunt my dreams till the day I die," the 30-year-old seagoing adventurer said in an interview aboard his 38-foot trawler The Siam.

"Finding the sub wasn't so bad. But when I peered upon the smuggled deck hatch and went inside, I knew right away I had made one hell of a mistake. The water inside was full of phosphorus and every move I made sent up a shower of greenish sparks.

"It gave off enough light to reveal the nightmare I had so foolishly unveiled.

"All around me were the bleached, grinning skulls of the men whose tomb I was desecrating. God!

"There must have been close to 100. My movements sent the skulls tumbling crazily in the water. Eventually they came to rest. And it seemed every one of them was staring at me — empty black sockets damning me for the terrible sin I was committing. Brave men had died here in battle.

"My presence dishonored them. I didn't touch anything. I just wanted to get out of there.

"As I did, my ears were filled with the sound of wailing. It grew louder and louder until I thought it would explode my brain. But the instant I slipped through the hatch, the wailing stopped. I hovered over the sub for a minute or two, just staring down at it.

"It seemed to glow in the light filtering down from the surface. I had the feeling I had been on a shrine.

"As I slowly backed away, the wailing began again. It followed me all the way back to the ship.

"I knew I would never go back to the sub again.

"Now I hear that someone else has found it. It was bound to happen, I guess."

HOW TO AVOID BEING RAPED!

A woman can avoid being raped by using her common sense and special tactics, says author Raymond A. McMahon, who got rape prevention advice from the best possible source — the rapists themselves.

By JUNE SAWYER
Weekly World News

McMahon — sentenced to a 25-years-to-life term at Florida's Union Correctional Institution for first-degree murder — is the author of The Book of Rape Prevention and compiled the following tips:

● If you live alone, double protection on the outer door of your home is a must, he said. Use a deadbolt lock and a security chain.

● Don't hitchhike and don't pick up a male hitchhiker you don't know.

● If you must walk at night, have someone with you.

● Never give your address or phone number to strange men — especially men you want in bars.

● Keep your window shades down and curtains closed whenever you're not at night. And always ask for identification when a stranger rings your doorbell.

● Don't hitchhike and don't pick up a male hitchhiker you don't know.

● If you must walk at night, have someone with you.

● Never give your address or phone number to strange men — especially men you want in bars.

● Keep your window shades down and curtains closed whenever you're not home, even during the day. Rapists often stake out a home before trying to enter it.

● Consider getting a roommate or a pet dog if you live alone. You're safer with another person and rapists are afraid of dogs, no matter what size they are.

● If there's an unknown caller at your door, loudly say, "John, I'll answer the door." Rapists said that they won't enter a home if they think another man is there.

● If all else fails and you are subdued, you can still avoid rape by sticking your finger down your throat and forcing yourself to vomit.

...who told mom & dad to spank him!

SCHOOLKID KILLER Evan Bayless is led to court by a detective just hours after the third-grader passed down his child psychologist.

CHILD PSYCHOLOGIST Dr. Melvin Dolecki recommended a spanking for 8-year-old Evan Bayless and paid for it with his life. Dr. Dolecki's body was found slumped over a desk in his office.

Hotheaded Evan was arrested at his suburban home an hour after the grisly killing and is awaiting trial in juvenile court.

"We'll recommend that this boy be put away for a long, long time because there's a very real danger to society," Det. Tolland told reporters.

The hair raising tale began in March when horrified Frederick Bayless and his wife Diana, both 34, discovered that their only son had tortured or killed six defenseless dogs and cats.

"Somebody had been poking out the eyes and cutting off the tails of our neighbors' pets and two cats had been found hanged," devastated Diana recalled. "Evan has always been a bit troubled, but we never dreamed he'd do such things."

Frantic Frederick and Diana took Evan to Dr. Dolecki, who met with the sadistic kid twice a week for more than three months.

"After all these sessions, the doctor told us that what Evan really needed was some old-fashioned discipline, and that the minute he kicked or bit or threatened anybody or threw a fit, we were to spank him on the spot," said the rattled dad.

"And sure enough, that very [redacted] the boy [redacted] his mother and I spanked the daylights out of him. It was a very real danger to society," Det. Tolland told reporters.

NEWS Flintstone Diet!

You can lose weight and improve your health at the same time — on the low-fat, easy-to-follow Fred Flintstone Diet!

The amazing regimen, brainchild of New Zealand anthropologist Anthony Hardman, involves eating the same foods that Fred and other ancient cavemen ate. The healthy, low-calorie diet is delicious, high in fiber and rich in vitamins. Dr. Hardman says it helped primitive man survive in a hostile world, and it can help you do the same.

"I was studying the cavemen of middle Europe and I began to realize that compared to modern man, primitive man was remarkably lean and fit," says Dr. Hardman. "Then I was overweight, I decided to try their simple diet and that's how the Flintstone Diet was born.

"It really works. I lost 45 pounds in just six months on caveman food and I feel younger and more energetic than I have in years."

Experts say cavemen like Fred ate foods that contained few calories but were high in fiber. If they did get sweet, it was very rare in fact. There are a great deal of plant foods, and mankind ate their diet with nuts, seeds, roots, eggs, fish and small mammals.

Eliminating the less palatable parts of an ancient man's diet and replacing them with modern food that is equally low in calories, Dr. Hardman came up with his effective Fred Flintstone Diet. Here's a sample menu:

BREAKFAST: Eat a breakfast of cereals rich in fiber and complex carbohydrates. Choose less processed cereals like Kasha Bran. Grapefruit or oatmeal, adding skim milk and raisins for natural sweetening. A glass of unsweetened orange juice provides vitamin C.

LUNCH: Toss up a salad made of fresh vegetables like lettuce, tomatoes, cucumbers, carrots, radishes, celery, parsley and chives. Dress it with lemon juice or diluted vinegar and herbs such as oregano, sage, thyme and pepper. "Don't add your favorite high fat salad dressing," Dr. Hardman says. "And don't add croutons or nuts because you'll be adding extra calories if you do."

DINNER: Have a simple breast of chicken or turkey with skin removed, or a slice of fish. Or make a Flintstone Pincushion out of lean meat skewered with green carrots, ripe onions, parsley potatoes or brown rice.

SNACKS: Between meals, nibble on grapefruit, oranges, tangerines, radishes, carrots, celery or unbuttered popcorn. Strawberries or other berries are excellent as well.

"There are great bananas these cavemen ate, but you have to buy them in their shells and crack them yourself like the cavemen did," Dr. Hardman says. "If you have to put some effort into opening them up, you'll eat fewer of them in the long run."

BEVERAGES: Drink diet sodas, diluted fruit juices, and skim milk for calcium.

"YABBA-DABBA-DO! Fred Flintstone's healthy diet is high in fiber and rich in vitamins.

Finalist kicked out of 'Beautiful Legs' contest — because she's a HE!

WEEKLY WORLD NEWS
SPECIAL EDITION!

By MICHAEL TODD
Weekly World News

DURBAN, South Africa — After winning seven straight preliminary contests in a Miss Beautiful Legs competition, Sharde Kleingbiel was barred from competing in the finals — because Sharde was a man in drag!

Yet, incredibly it was "common consensus" that Sharde should have won the contest, said Liz Clarke, one of the judges in the competition.

"He looked really stunning — and if he hadn't told us he was a man, we wouldn't've been none the wiser," Clarke declared.

Sharde, really 19-year-old hairdresser's apprentice Johann Kleinbool, said he "loves dressing up as a woman."

When he entered the Miss Beautiful Legs contest at a local fair, he didn't hide the fact from the judges that he was a man — but the spectators thought he was just one of the girls.

"At first, I was absolutely terrified when I was called onstage, but when everyone started wolf-whistling and cheering, I realized they had no idea I was a man and my confidence was re-showing off my legs to the best advantage. Some girls even started glaring at me as well in appreciation.

"I was that first preliminary easily and made it through six more heats. But then the sponsors of the contest — a ladies' underwear manufacturer — got worried and told the judges enough was enough and they must get rid of me.

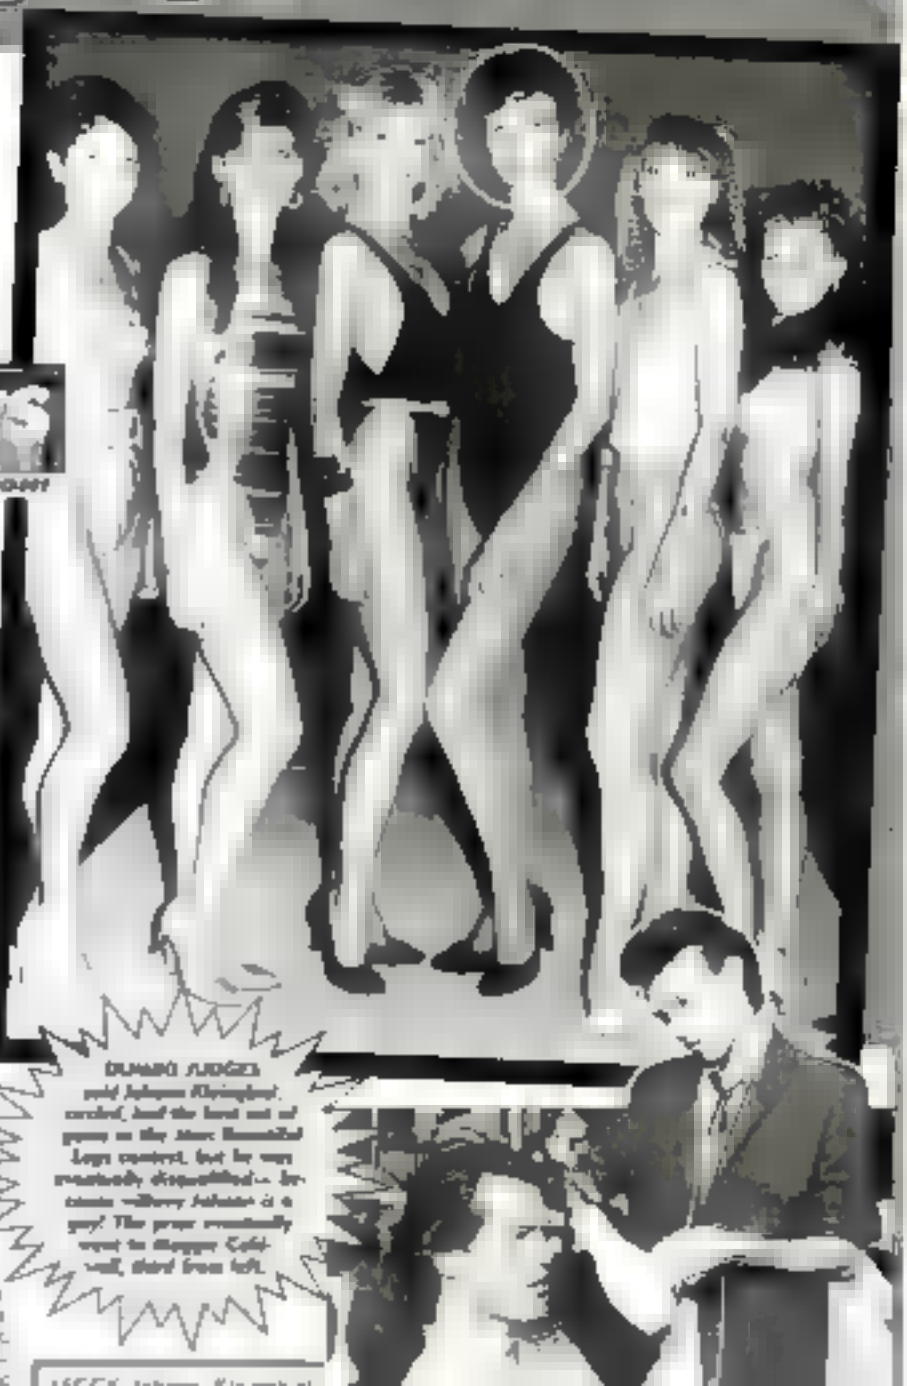
"They said it wasn't fair to the girls to let me through to the finals."

After the sponsors barred Sharde from the finals in the contest for fear he'd win, first prize went to 19-year-old Maggie Caldwell.

But even Maggie said: "I think it was very unfair that they kicked Sharde out. Quite honestly, he has really beautiful legs."

And Liz Clarke recalled: When Sharde was his first heat, the sponsors started to get a little nervous.

"They were in a right spot, because for a man to win — even if he did have fantastic



DURBAN JUDGES said Johann Kleinbool, circled, had the best set of gams on the Miss Beautiful Legs contest, but he was eventually disqualified — because nobody believes it's a guy! The prize eventually went to Maggie Caldwell, third from left.

END TIMES PROPHECIES NOSTRADAM

By MICHAEL FOSTER

Nostradamus, history's greatest seer, predicts that in September 1999 a meteor concealed in the tail of a comet will slam into Earth, spawning colossal tidal waves, massive earthquakes, famine and worldwide political upheaval. And amid the chaos, World War III will erupt when the Anti-Christ — an Islamic Genghis Khan-like dictator — declares war on the West!

That is the terrifying revelation of researcher Stefan Ryder, who unveils his report in a must-read new book Nostradamus 1999 (Llewellyn, $14.95).

"If Nostradamus is right, then everything Western civilization has attained over hundreds of years will be taken away in a matter of minutes — and almost all of us are going to die," said the author in an exclusive interview.

AUTHOR Irene Paulus

Nostradamus, who lived in 16th-century France, is widely believed to have been the most accurate psychic ever. Many events he foretold, including the fall of Communism, have already come to pass. The seer recorded his properties in hundreds of convoluted verses known as quatrains and interpreting these correctly, says Paulus, was "like putting together pieces of a jigsaw puzzle."

"The prophecy quoted has analysis around the final prophesy of Nostradamus to mention a specific date. That chilling verse, Quatrain 72, reads:

"The year 1999, the seventh Sept. From the sky will come a great King of Terror. Resuscitating the great King of the Mongols. Before and after, Mars to reign happily."

Paulus interprets this to mean that a comet will appear in the sky terrifying mankind.

The comet will startle and upset existing relationships in power in Asia, says the researcher, noting that the original "Great King of the Mongols" was the Mongolian warlord Genghis Khan.

"Mars" clearly refers to the ancient Roman god of war and so Nostradamus is warning that military conflict will both precede and follow the arrival of the comet, according to Paulus.

TERROR IN THE SKIES

Several other quatrains also mention this comet. In Quatrain 43, Nostradamus warns, "During the bearded star's appearance," Earth will be "hit from the sky," causing a "trembling."

DEATH WILL COME IN THE FORM OF A METEOR . . .

fall to the Earth, Paulus says.

What's more, Quatrain 49 reads: "The great desolation round of seven stades" will "roll far away striking great countries" and causing "war famine and flood."

A "round mountain" is an description of a meteor, says Paulus. And Nostradamus even gives the exact circumference of the object. Seven stades is a measurement equalling nearly 4,200 feet.

"What Nostradamus is saying is that Earth will pass through the tail of a comet in 1999, and while passing through it we will be subjected to a massive meteor shower," said Paulus. He has "We will be hit by one rock about 4 miles in diameter that will land in the Mediterranean."

KILLER METEOR STRIKES

The consequences of such a meteor's impact would be devastating, said the author.

"If a rock two city blocks wide, two blocks long and two blocks deep hits the Earth at 30 to 40 miles per second there will be an explosive impact.

"The total energy expended by all the arms used in World War II combined is the equivalent of a meteor about 2 megatons in the meteor landed in the ocean it would create approximately 1,000 cubic miles of water — 1,000 times as much.

"The impact will create a bounce in the crust of the Earth creating in the Pacific waves of 300 feet high, a massive earthquake approaching a 13 on the Richter scale."

Some other effects

● Shockwaves from the earthquake — the most powerful ever — will race out at speeds approaching 1,000 miles per hour, literally damaging the coastal areas of America and Western Europe.

● A gigantic tidal wave will follow a few hours later, devastating everything left standing on the shoreline. Millions will be killed and tens of millions others left homeless.

● Hurricane-like hurricanes will be created. "The hurricanes spawned would not be ordinary hurricanes. They would be hyperstorms, with winds of up to 500 miles per hour," said Paulus.

● America's infrastructure destroyed, but many survivors will spend up to a half-century in a world.

● Clouds of dust and soot will darken the sky.

Earth As Nostradamus warns in Quatrain 71, "The earth and air will tremble."

● Because of the bad weather the world will face the worst food shortage in history.

In Quatrain 67 Nostradamus warns of a "great famine I see approaching." Even more chillingly, he says, "So high will a bushel of wheat rise, that man by fellow man will devour." In other words, we'll turn to cannibalism.

While North America and Western Europe will be crippled, Asia and the Middle East will grow stronger.

Nostradamus predicts the unification of the Moslems under one leader in a massive Islamic super-state — army 200 million strong.

WORLD WAR III

"Western Europe's industry will have been destroyed, but it will still have arms. The Asians, needing food, will attack to negotiate the area and take the farmland," said Paulus. "According to Nostradamus, World War III will start about three years after the meteor hits. It will be a multi-faceted religious war and a primitive war."

THE MODERN ANTI-CHRIST

This war the Moslem leader is the same figure that Nostradamus refers to as the Ant-

TWO-THIRD

E?

...AND A THIRD WORLD WAR THAT SPANS THREE DECADES!

CONTINUED on popular belief, World War III will be waged with conventional and nuclear weapons, says researcher...

ond Genghis Khan, and elsewhere as The Anti-Christ.

"The individual may also be the same as a figure known in Islam's own end times prophecies as "the Mahdi," notes Paulus.

"The Bible says the Anti-Christ will come from the East. And ancient traditions of Islam say that the Mahdi will rise up from China.

"There are tens of millions of Muslims in Northwest China — the same area that Genghis Khan came from."

THREE DECADES OF BLOODSHED

Qualkinbush wrote: "The Arab-Christ three-year campaign annihilates Israel and seven years of travel will last but six.

Bloody carpets human soldier red hail on the earth."

Surprisingly that verse indicates that Armageddon will last a staggering 27 years.

"People make the assumption that World War III will be a nuclear war and it will be over in 20 minutes.

"I don't see that happening," said Phillips.

"If the Arabs used nuclear weapons, the last thing they want to see would be irradiated useless."

At the end of the conflict, [illegible] of the world's population will be dead, leaving only two billion people still alive. Nostradamus believes in his prophecies.

Said Paulus: "The impact on civilization will be enormous, returning the world to a standard of living at least as low as before the Industrial Revolution — possibly the Middle Ages."

WOMAN BURNED ALIVE — AS A WITCH!

SHOCKING IMAGE shows woman burning to death.

By MICHAEL [illegible], Weekly World News

ANCAPAMPA, Peru — It was like a nightmare out of medieval times: A crazed, shrieking mob of peasants dragged a terrified woman out of jail and into the village square — and burned her alive as a "witch"!

Incredibly, the officials at the [illegible] post did actually ordered the hideous execution.

"It's an extraordinary case," said Superior Court Judge Walter Nores, who presided over the trial of two people charged with the vicious murder.

"The woman was accused of practicing witchcraft. According to some members of the community, certain connections made by her had affected the health of members of the community," said the judge.

"Authorities of the town ordered her out of jail and taken to the plaza where she was burned alive."

The hideous act of medieval torture occurred after authorities decided to give 35-year-old Bertha Lazza, who stood accused of witchcraft, a public trial.

She'd been arrested after a young girl allegedly died from [illegible] one of the witness nearly every person in Ancapampa — gathered in front of the town jail after hours. One of them was Gualberto Lazza, the nephew of the accused woman. "The trial was a mockery ... like something right out of the Holy Inquisition," he said.

"My aunt Bertha was not even given a chance to defend herself against the charges.

"Finally the authorities of the town decided to burn her. The crowd cheered wildly. The authorities then gave me the key to the jail and ordered me to open it.

"I didn't want to do it, but I was afraid the mob would turn against me. Several villagers dragged my aunt out of the jail.

"Then the mob screamed, 'Execute which ... burn the witch!' Bertha was taken to the town square and tied to a post. A villager doused her with gasoline.

"She was sobbing, tears running down her face. She really did look like a witch. Her clothes were all torn and dirty and her long gray hair was untidy.

"When they set a match to her, the flames engulfed her body immediately as she let out a bloodcurdling scream. The whole scene was dreadful. The people were shrieking and waving wildly. They didn't even look human anymore.

"They became vampires."

About two weeks after the brutal murder police from the local capital of Huanuchaco arrived to investigate.

After a preliminary investigation, the matter was turned over to the Superior Court in Trujillo. Two men were later convicted of murder in the case and sentenced to 15 years in prison.

ZOOKEEPER SAYS CAGED CRITTERS GO APE OVER ANIMAL PINUPS

By LILA SCHWANDT
Weekly World News

'OOH-LA-LA! GET A LOAD OF THOSE GORGEOUS GAMS!'

MUNICH, Germany — Zoo vets have come up with a bizarre new way to keep their charges healthy and happy: They're posting sexy animal pinups in their cages!

The veterinarians at the Municipal Zoo say apes, tigers, hippos and other mammals are less stressed, calmer and easier to handle when posters of the females of their species are displayed prominently in their pens and cages.

They report a 17 percent drop in illness and a 23 percent drop in incidences involving the animals since the pinups were posted last November.

Veterinarian says that since [illegible] and then put them around all the time to the animals can look at them from time to time," said Gunter Veder-mann, head zookeeper. "We thought it would just amuse them — but it turns out to have amazing health and behavior benefits, too."

"After we put pinups in the gorilla and chimp cages, our apes were absolutely transformed. Where before they were grumpy, lazy and aggressive, after the pictures went up they became overactive, good-tempered and sociable. The apes turned into party-goers within just a few days, and one of our hippos got so tame we housed him in the petting zoo."

Vedermann says that since [illegible] become more interested in exercise, their personal habits improve and they eat better. He says: "They don't think about anything other than a piece of fruit or changing other animals in their pens. They're thinking about love, I guess."

Female animals also react to pictures of males of their species, the zoo director says, but not to the same degree.

"The only problems we have ever encountered with pinups is that the animals sometimes fight over their favorite playmates," Vedermann says. "But we can settle that by making extra copies of the most popular pinups."

The unique approach to creature care has been so successful in Munich that officials from zoos all over the world are visiting the park or requesting information about its photo policy.

TERRIFIED MOM USES BABY LIKE A BASEBALL BAT

...& knocks mugger out cold!

FOILED: Kurt Warmus was stopped in his tracks by Heidi Dechert

HER LITTLE TOUGH GUY: Adrian Dechert is more than grateful for the wallop his mom Heidi used him as a club to beat off a mugger

HAMBURG, Germany — A ruthless thug attacked horrified Heidi Dechert on a dark street and demanded money, but the shocked mom outsmarted the creep — by bashing him over the head with her 8-month-old son!

By JOE BERGER
World News Service

Miraculously, blue-eyed baby Adrian Dechert escaped the encounter without a scratch — while 167-pound ex-con Kurt Warmus wound up in the hospital with a broken nose and a fractured skull.

"I can't believe I actually knocked that lousy out with my precious baby, but that's just what I did," gasped wide-eyed Heidi, 31. "It happened so fast I really didn't know what I was doing. The guy had aboded at me and I ejaculated him with the nearest thing at hand — and that happened to be little Adrian.

"By the grace of God it all worked out, but if I'd as much as bruised that boy, I'd dark as she walked to a grocery store four blocks from her home.

And burly Kurt stepped from the shadows, grabbed Heidi by the hair and told her to hand over her money.

"I'd stuffed a few bills in my coat pocket and left my purse at home so I could carry Adrian easier, but the guy wanted me so bad I couldn't remember which pocket the money was in," the mortified mom recalled. "So he starts telling me he's going to kill me and my baby if I don't hurry it up and that's when I just flipped out.

"I held Adrian by the shoulders and hit the guy smack in the face with him.

or four more good ones and he went down with a thud and banged his head on the sidewalk.

"I went over and started to kick him, but I could see he was out cold so I ran to call the cops."

The police hauled the dazed desperado off to the hospital and plan to throw the book at him once he recovers.

The guy is lucky to be alive after the number that lady dot on him," said fuming bereaved Fritz Cooperich the first cop on the scene.

"When we got there, the baby was crying and the mother was crying there out like a fight, bleeding all over the sidewalk.

"And when she told us what happened, we were so

But then we decided that would have been all wrong.

Thankfully the kid wasn't hurt a bit and after talking to Mrs. Dechert we realized it was just a spot of the terrible thing and she was a brave lady to

DOOMED SHIP: Theories to explain disappearance of the USS Cyclops ranged from sabotage to an attack by giant squid

U.S. Navy ship vanishes without a trace!

In March 1918, the USS Cyclops steamed out of Barbados carrying 309 persons and 10,800 tons of manganese. It sailed on fair weather on a busy shipping lane — and mysteriously vanished without a trace.

After 80 years the deep disappearance of the Cyclops remains the Navy's most baffling mystery. Admiral Lt. Cmdr. Nathan Tisdale: "No radar-equipped vessel ever disappeared so abruptly and so finally."

The 542-foot vessel was launched in 1910. Its builders claimed, "All the latest and best engineering techniques were used and it was judged good for at least 10 years of service in all kinds of seas."

During World [redacted] the Navy ship was a prize base asset to the Allies for transporting cargo and passengers.

A few days before its last, fateful journey, the Cyclops had gone to Barbados and picked up a cargo of manganese, a metal essential to the U.S. war effort.

When the ship failed to reach its American port, the Navy launched an intensive search and President Woodrow Wilson demanded an explanation. But not one clue was found.

According to U.S. Navy[illegible] investigation proceedings: "All persons working to trace the vessel were completely baffled. It vanished without any of the usual traces — flotsam and debris — left by an internal explosion or a torpedo hit.

"No unusual weather was reported along the Cyclops' route when lost. No radio distress signals were received — even though storage batteries could have transmitted a message with dead engines."

Theories ranging from sabotage to an attack by giant squid were put forth to explain the mystery. Ugly rumors began to circulate that the ship's German born commander G.W. Worley, suspected[illegible] had sunk his own ship or made off with it as a pirate of war.

But Worley's wife said his [illegible] through. He hated his fatherland and came to America to find freedom. He would fight and die for that freedom."

Lt. Cmdr. Tisdale theorized that somehow the ship "turned over so abruptly there was no chance of sending an SOS and no possibility for debris to be left on the surface."

George Noble, correspondent for The National Mariner, ruthlessly suggested: "Gargantuan squid may have reared themselves out of the sea, helping themselves to the ship's people as delicate[illegible]ly and effectually as one plucks the grandparents off a bush."

The possibility that the ship had been sunk by an enemy submarine was discounted after the Armistice was signed. The German High Command searched its records and swore that the Cyclops wasn't the target of a torpedo.

13-year-old boy convicted of trying [redacted] set up sex ring!

BOSTON, Va. — A seventh grade boy who bragged that he was known around school as Mr. Pimp was convicted of attempting to arrange sex-for-pay between girls and boys at his middle school.

The 13-year-old ringleader was said to have had a list of girls who paid to be part of a sex club at the school.

"He was to be their pimp," said Prosecutor John Murphy. "The girls had to cough up $10 apiece."

The unidentified boy approached other boys in his class at Longstreet Hughes Middle School and told them he could arrange for them to have sex with as many as three girls at once.

Authorities said the boy was arrested before he actually

TURN YOUR NOSE INTO AN INSTANT CA$H MACHINE

. . . just by pressing in the right places!

Wealth and prosperity are as close as the hole on your face, an expert says — if you learn how to press a few acupressure points on your nostrils that are guaranteed to make you attract money like a magnet!

Famed Australian acupressure expert Dr. Lurlean Smith says his studies have revealed an amazing connection between the body's pressure points and wealth.

"Pushing the proper area of your nose can change the electrical flow in the nerves on both sides, uplifting you up physically and psychologically for extraordinary wealth," says Dr. Smith, whose [redacted] shows penetrating acupressure techniques for the ears made him world famous in 1981. "Money comes to you because you are receptive. Money is attracted by your aura.

"I call this technique cash-u-pressure. It is simple to do and it is amazingly successful."

Dr. Smith says that year he and a colleague conducted a six-month research project, involving 347 volunteers, to test whether applying pressure to the nostrils and bridge of the nose could influence their finances.

Incredibly, a whopping 91 percent of people who applied his cash-u-pressure techniques experienced an increase in income within 11 weeks.

"To use my method, set aside a quiet time each morning and evening and make yourself comfortable," Dr. Smith said. "Then for a week, press one area of your nose for 10 seconds in the morning and again in the evening.

"The following week, switch [redacted] you have pressed the notice once. Repeat the process until your financial problem is solved."

Dr. Smith offers these simple tips to find the various money-making pressure points on your nose:

● JOB PROMOTION: From acupressure point #1 imagine yourself in a new job with more pay and more responsibility after 10 seconds, release.

● [redacted]: Apply pressure to point #2. Tell yourself you are loved by your family and friends and that they want to reward you. After 10 seconds, release the nose.

● GET FAT REFUND: Press point #3. Think what a hard working citizen you are, how much you deserve a giant tax refund. Hold 10 seconds and release.

● [redacted]: Press point #4. Think how lucky you are, how fortune smiles on you. Repeat your lucky numbers in your mind as you hold your nose firmly for 10 seconds. Then release.

● [redacted]: Press point #5. Convince yourself that you are a deserving person and [redacted] you have [redacted] for your many wonderful traits. Hold for 10 seconds and release.

● [redacted]: Press firmly at point #6. Visualize a letter from sweepstakes officials telling you you've won a fortune. Hold for 10 seconds and release.

● PAY RAISE: Press your [redacted] at point #7. Think of what a success you are on the job and how happy your boss must be. Apply firm pressure for 10 seconds, then release.

"The acupressure and the mental exercises work together to make you a magnet for money," Dr. Smith says. "In no time, you should be rolling in newfound riches."

Reincarnation experts reveal:

Most true lovers meet again

LIFE AFTER

By HELEN ENGSTROM
Weekly World News

If you deeply love your mate now, experts say, don't fear that death will rob you of your sweetheart — because the odds are good that you'll renew your union in a future life!

At least one out of every five married couples were wedded in a previous lifetime, reincarnation researchers say. And the major link between their past and present lifetimes is the strong love they feel, according to the experts.

Research shows that time after time when husbands and wives are separately regressed into previous lives through hypnotism, they recount astonishingly similar details of past lives together.

You can tell if you lived a past life with a loved one by answering the questions at the end of this article.

"I have discovered that at least one in five of my patients have been with the partners they have today in a past life," declared clinical psychologist Dr. Edith Fiore, author of You Have Been Here Before.

"Lovers from the past will reincarnate again and again," agreed psychic researcher Dick Sutphen, author of You Were Born Again To Be Together.

"Although they will not remember events of their past lives when they meet in their next lives, they will be strongly attracted to each other, and love will be renewed."

Weekly World News* asked a number of experts for examples of lovers who met again in future lives and they provided these heartwarming accounts:

One incredible case history of love in two separate lifetimes was uncovered by hypnotherapist Frank Baranowski, who has studied nearly 500 such cases.

A young couple, John and Sheila, came to Baranowski with sex problems. Baranowski regressed them separately — and came up with a startling discovery.

Under hypnosis, John recalled a happy marriage in a past life which had ended in tragedy. "His wife died in childbirth," said Baranowski.

"He blamed himself, saying, 'My God, I killed her.'"

Then, incredibly, John identified the woman who had died in childbirth more than 150 years before as the lady he now was married to — Sheila!

Intrigued, Baranowski regressed Sheila "and she described the very same incident," Baranowski said.

Sheila's death obviously had carried over into this present life, causing his sexual problems. Baranowski said. Once John understood that, he was able to enjoy a normal sex life with Sheila — and now she's pregnant.

"This case shows that love really is eternal," said Baranowski.

In many cases, couples who are victims of premature death are reincarnated together, said researcher Dr. H. N. Banerjee, who studied more than 1,100 cases worldwide.

"People who truly and deeply loved one another in one life, but were 'cheated' of fulfilling their romance, come back to continue their love affair," the expert explained.

Dr. Banerjee recalled one amazing case. "A couple in Los Angeles named Richard and Trina met and fell in love on a ski vacation, but couldn't settle down since they interests were opposite. However, under separate regressions they discovered that they had been married before in other lives.

"They first fell in love in 17th-century France, where they were peasants. The girl was going to have a baby but caught the plague and died — along with the baby within her. The boy was so overcome with grief that he drowned himself in a river.

"Tragedy also stalked their second relationship.

"They were a young couple heading west on a wagon train in America in the 1850s. But Richard was killed by Indians and Trina was kidnapped by them.

"She starved herself to death."

There are past lives and loves, said Dr. Banerjee, explained the powerful attraction between them today.

Hypnotherapist and author Dr. Edith Fiore has regressed more than 100 couples in independent regressions, revealed:

"About one out of five couples that I've examined were married in previous lives. This is a startling number — and an incredible phenomenon."

People often continue searching until they find their loved one from a past life, declares Oxford-trained theologian David Christie-Murray.

Expert's shocking WARNING:

ANTS ARE REALLY ALIENS FROM SPACE!

By PATRICIA GEORGE and KELLY TURNER
Weekly World News

A noted insect expert has issued a chilling doomsday warning: "Ants are space aliens that are taking over the Earth — just as they did Mars and other now lifeless planets!"

"People have always thought of ants as something as much a part of Earth as the air we breathe," declared Dr. Conrad Stuts, a Chicago entomologist who's made a lifelong study of the tiny insects.

"But my colleagues and I have positive proof that the ant is not native to planet Earth . . . It's an alien life-form that came here from outer space.

"The ants now found in every populated, habitable corner of Earth could have been carried here by space winds or on starships that landed here. But how they arrived isn't important.

"What is important is they are already not merely taking over. They're everywhere . . . multiplying at an explosive rate. Soon they will do to Earth what we believe they did to other planets they inhabited — they killed them!"

Dr. Stuts

Dr. Stuts explained that in many parts of the Amazon, Africa, Borneo and India enormous armies of carpenter ants are moving through vast areas, devouring every tree in their path while other species are stripping the ground bare of every single blade of grass and millions of acres of crops.

"Without grass, grazing animals starve and the bare land is devastated by erosion. What crops aren't eaten by the ants will be blown away as dry winds sweep across the barren, lifeless land. If they aren't stopped in time, ants will blanket the Earth, and mankind will not survive on this planet if that happens.

"What is especially terrifying is that, at present, we have no way of killing them en masse. And if we can't kill them, they will, sooner or later, cover Earth like a living, swarming blanket of death. Eventually the ants will transform this beautiful paradise into a lifeless sphere of dirt and water. And they will perish as well — unless they manage to reach another inhabitable planet where they can start the cycle all over again."

Dr. Stuts, one of the world's foremost experts on ants, is the man who first warned that killer bees were heading for the U.S. They have since been reported in Texas and may now be moving into Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico. "Compared to the ants, the bees are nothing more than a trifle," he said. "What we are faced with now is the eventual annihilation of the human race and every other living thing on Earth . . . except the conquering

MAMA Fanny Jamieson picketing in front of her son's used-car lot.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Fanny Jamieson is out to get revenge on the heartless, low-down, sneaky used-car salesman who sold her a broken-down lemon that didn't even run a mile — and the rat she's after is her own son!

The 63-year-old widow, thought of by her friends as "the sweetest angel this side of Heaven," has vowed to picket son Hubert's used-car lot until he drops dead or gives her a good car.

"At this point, I can't say I care which comes first," feisty Fanny declared as she toted a sign outside her son's sales office that reads, My own son conned me! He said me a lemon!

"How could he do such a thing to his own mama?

"If it wasn't for me, he'd still be selling vacuum cleaners door-to-door.

"I gave him the money to start his used-car business — money I had saved for my retirement.

"He's 43 years old and he still lives in my home, rent free. I know I should kick him out, but he IS my son and I love him no matter what.

"So I cook for him, wash and iron his clothes and I pick up after him.

"And how did that big moocher say 'Thanks, Ma?'

"He sold me a car that was a clunker before it kicked the bucket.

"I learned later that he knew the car had bad brakes, that he'd packed the transmission with sawdust to make it quieter and not leak and that he'd patched a crack in the engine, knowing it wouldn't last more than a few months.

COLOR-FAKED son Hubert had the gall to charge his mom Fanny $18,500 for a worthless piece of junk.

"He knew the car wasn't worth more than $8,000 — and that's if it was in perfect condition."

But Hubert, proud owner of a suburban car lot called Honest Hubie's, boasts that what he did was nothing but good salesmanship.

"Hey! I've got a business to run," he declared.

"Sure, she's my mother. But if I give one person a break, I'd have to give everyone a break. I mean, I try to be a fair man.

"I could've told her the car was a lemon, but I didn't. I figured she got a heck of a deal. I mean, I sold it to her for $18,500 and I'd only paid $8,000 for it. I thought that was a bargain as far as I'm concerned.

"I could of gotten a lot more from a collector. But I tried to be a nice guy. How could I know it was a clunker?"

Fanny's picket campaign has been underway for about a month. Still, there's no sign her money-grubbing son is about to give her another set of wheels.

"No siree," Hubert said. "I can't do that. I mean, I do love my mother.

Explorers find Indian tribe that speaks E.T. language!

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — Explorers have stumbled upon a tribe of Indians who speak a language unrelated to any other on Earth — and linguistics experts believe it is of extra-terrestrial origin!

"This language is absolutely unique," declared renowned linguist Professor Raphael Monteiro, author of Indo-European Languages and Negro Dialects. "It is not of this Earth."

The tribe was recently found deep in the rain forest, in the northwestern state of Rondonia.

"We were cutting our way through the jungle when we happened upon a group of them," said expedition leader Bernardo Monteiro.

"As we arrived, a couple dressed in loincloths emerged from a hut and began making strange clicks and whirring sounds.

"Our Indian guide — who is familiar with several tribal languages — tried to communicate with them, but failed."

Experts later analyzed recordings of the Indian language — and were astonished by what they discovered. "We found no resemblance to any known language group either in vocabulary or syntax," revealed Prof. Monteiro.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — Psychologist Dr. Alfred Mirschlin is providing new evidence for reincarnation by placing people in hypnosis — and moving them FORWARD in time!

For years hypnotherapists have been using past-life regression — hypnotizing patients and getting them to remember who they were before they were born into their current bodies.

But Dr. Mirschlin is the first therapist on record to get people to "recall" the future.

Hundreds attest that Dr. Mirschlin's FLP technique has taken them to a future where food and water are scarce and the air is so polluted it's almost unbreathable.

gestures on your subconscious mind, according to Dr Frank S Caprio, a noted psychiatrist and hypnotherapist.

"It happens occasionally to everyone – like drop before the tube," Dr Caprio said. "The sleeping viewer is suddenly aroused. Realizing he has fallen asleep with the TV on, gets up, turns it off and goes to bed.

"Since he cannot remember anything that took place on the TV screen while he napped, he takes it for granted it has had no effect on him. Nothing could be further from the truth."

One of Dr Caprio's patients came to him with a tale which emphasizes how TV messages can steal into a person's subconscious mind while he's asleep, the psychiatrist said.

The patient, who had been in conflict with his boss for a long time, had been having dreams of committing violent acts at his office. The dreams really frightened him.

"He knew he was unhappy at work," Dr. Caprio recalled. "But he couldn't understand why he kept dreaming about beating up the boss — and even shooting him."

It turned out the patient had most nights before he went to bed slept through programs dealing with crime and violence which found their way into his dreams. The message that one can fight one's way out of predicaments was gradually being developed up by his subconscious.

"It is not unusual to find people acting upon suggestions [who] have received in their dreams," Dr. Caprio said. "Dreams, materials or ten seed conversations or incidents to people to help them solve actual problems. So it's easy to see how TV dreams can take charge of their lives.

"The dreament solution to a problem is played out when the dreamer is awake. That's why a dream often predicts the future — it becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy."

Laboratory tests have shown that films broadcast to people when they're asleep are very apt to be incorporated into their dreams, the expert said. Normally in front of the TV set, the sleeper's subconscious tends to accept programs, ancients and commercials.

Half of all car accidents occur while driver is in a trance!

The leading cause of car wrecks isn't alcohol, carelessness or bad weather, an expert says — it's hypnosis!

Drivers involved in the majority of auto accidents are suffering from "road hypnosis," a condition triggered by the mind-numbing effects of repetitive sights and sounds drivers encounter on the high way, claims a leading hypnotist.

"Five hypnotized more than 1,000 people after car accidents and more than half remembered they were actually in a state of trance — or road hypnosis — when they had the accident," said the expert, Dr Maurice Bryant.

Dr Bryant, past president of the Area To Advance Clinical Hypnosis, explained how drivers become hypnotized. "Modern automobiles are built for comfort and driving ease and these so-called improvements are the very things people shouldn't have in their cars," he said.

"A person becomes hypnotized when he is comfortable and relaxed and then focuses on an object. As the results of today's cars make driving so effortless and soothing that the driver ends up in a relaxed, comfortable atmosphere.

"Add to that monotonous condition of the dashes of any street — the twilight of the car ahead, the ceiling of the windshield wipers, the flickering of passing telephone poles — the passive driver falls into a hypnotized state.

WARWICH, Australia — Fed-up parents Ann and Gregory Beecher paid a woman $40,000 to marry their good-for-nothing son — and take him far, far away.

Sonny is a sloppy, 28 year-old lard-butt who has not had a job since he delivered newspapers on his bike 10 years ago.

The lazy lout has been flunking in the "this or that" in colleges and various correspondence schools for most of the past 10 years.

"He doesn't know what he wants to be but we want him gone," said Sonny's dad. The frustrated parents say Sonny has been costing them about $25,000 a year. "And that's a modest figure," said Beecher.

"He eats like there's no tomorrow but doesn't help with the cooking or dishes. He drives our cars over pizzas and forgets to turn off the lights when he leaves a room. This leech just has to go."

Ann and Gregory Beecher tried everything to get Sonny off their backs. They kicked him out of the house, cut off his allowance and refused to pay his bills.

Nothing worked. Sonny just moved in with his girlfriend, Dorothy McLean, 21, and continued to live off his parents.

Then, out of desperation, Mom and Dad placed an ad in a newspaper in their hometown, offering to pay a woman $40,000 to marry their shiftless son.

"We were looking for a woman out with a mothering attitude — one who would treat Sonny like we did — as long as she was willing to move at least 500 miles away," said Beecher.

They called through hundreds of letters from more than 500 applicants and finally narrowed the field to three young women. Three attractive, level-headed women who could provide Sonny with the stability he needed to straighten out his life.

Dorothy McLean fit the bill perfectly. She had a steady job as a secretary, was a churchgoer and had never been married.

"That left one remaining problem," said Beecher.

"She had to win Sonny into marrying her.

"We didn't think that would be a problem since the vain actress was a whole lot smarter than Sonny."

It took Dorothy about two weeks to talk smitten Sonny into tying the knot. The lure of a $40,000 payroll was the key to the whirlwind romance.

They got married last month and hit the road that night, said Mrs. Beecher.

"We told Dorothy not to call us for at least a year," said Beecher. "That's how long we figure it will take Sonny to get his life together."

There is a likelihood for Dorothy to stay married to Sonny because she didn't get the whole $40,000 in a lump payment.

She got $20,000 down and the balance is to be paid in monthly installments over the next two years.

Fried chicken, grits & hush puppies HOT in Korea!

SEOUL, Korea — Folks are lining up to chow down on the hottest new novelty food to hit this town in years: Soul food!

The distinctive cuisine has become so popular in the past six months that it's standing room only at two new restaurants specializing in favorites from the American South. Customers load up on grits, chitterlings, collard greens, barbecued pork sandwiches, fried chicken and other soul food favorites — and they pay a hefty price for the privilege.

RESTAURANT owner Dalton Jones

"The demand for soul food is so great that I'm already making a chain of 24 outlets for other parts of the country.

"These Koreans just can't get their fill of soul food. They love it because it's so different from the food they eat. They're tired of raw and soy sauce and chopped up veggies. They want some crunchy fried chicken, they want ham and redeye gravy, they want catfish and hush puppies. They want real food."

Jones, 43, was stationed in Korea in the Army and married a Korean bride. When his tour of duty was over, he went back to America and worked as a chef in Atlanta and open his own restaurant there.

Within months of opening a small eatery called Seoul Soul, Jones had more customers than he could handle. He opened a second place — Seoul Soul II — and that, too, is filled to capacity every night.

"The Koreans are eating soul food as fast as I can make it, chowing down all that good country cookin' with their chopsticks," said Jones.

"They're crazy about grits and they really like the chitterlings. I think there's a great future in this country for down home cooking."

CHRISTIAN builder Mel Johansen hands in work his way into Heaven

By PATRICIA GEORGE
Weekly World News

An enterprising contractor has promised to build a massive addition to Heaven if God guarantees him a spot in Paradise when his days on Earth are through!

Mel Johansen's offer might sound ridiculous but he happens to think it's the smartest thing he's ever done.

The 64 year old man from Los Angeles has been obsessed with getting into Heaven since clergyman Roger LaFont announced that it was full back in 1994.

And offering to build an addition is Johansen's way of assuring himself an eternity of happiness in a hereafter "that is plenty roomy enough to accommodate everyone who deserves to get in."

"Everyone wants to go to Heaven but I'm the only one who's doing anything about it," continued Johansen, who is offering to build the addition through personal prayers and on radio talk shows across the nation.

"People go to church and sing how the Golden Rule is of course, but that's not going to do them much good in Heaven is full.

"My plan is to expand Heaven so there will be enough room for all the people who deserve to go there. I know it sounds crazy, but let's face it — the Lord really does work in mysterious ways."

Johansen, who refers to himself as a devout Presbyterian, began to think about building an addition to Heaven in the spring of 1994.

That is when the controversial French clergyman Roger LaFont made international headlines by claiming that Heaven was full and saying that nobody no matter how good and devout they were would ever get in again.

The expert based his report on an interpretation of the so-called Lost Books of the Bible which predicted that Heaven would fill up no later than 1994.

"Heaven clearly needs an addition and I'm the man to build it," said Johansen.

"I've been broke and addicted all my life so it's only just now that I should offer my services to the Lord in exchange for my own little space in Heaven.

"I'll even have enough of gold left over to build a mansion for myself."

Despite his confidence, Johansen admitted that he has a special reason for wanting to get into Heaven.

Making matters even worse for him, his wife Amanda died of cancer in 1992 and he is convinced that she is in Heaven.

"I'm not sure if she's in Heaven or not but I believe she is and I want to be with her," he said.

Johansen has already begun construction on the addition and has hired a crew of workers to help him

Kappel made medical history when he sewed together organs and body parts from five ailing animals that were rescued from a glue factory — and made the world's first Frankenhorse!

The doctor has taken his lumps from critics who call the operation to make one horse from five "unethical and unnecessary."

But Dr. Kappel contends that what he learned while creating the horse "will revolutionize veterinary medicine forever," eventually making it possible to save the lives of winning racehorses, champion show dogs, breeding stock and other valuable animals.

"This horse is an astonishing achievement, and if people don't recognize that now, they will later on," declared Dr. Kappel, who operates a large-animal clinic in Vienna.

"We have proven that horses and other large animals are excellent candidates for limb, organ and head transplants. The implications are staggering."

ASTONISHING achievement. Dr. Kappel says the horse is in "damn good health."

Dr. Kappel is considered to be one of the finest veterinary surgeons in Europe and is credited with pioneering several advanced techniques, including the transplantation of a cow's brain into the head of an ape.

The expert conducted his Frankenhorse experiment last winter. After months of preparation, he obtained five sickly horses from a glue factory and analyzed the strengths and weaknesses of each one.

He then sewed the bloodpumping heart of one horse to the torso of another. He added a lung, liver and kidneys from the other animals in an 18-hour operation that, Dr. Kappel said, "went off without a hitch."

"The horse is in damn good health considering what it has been through," said Dr. Kappel.

"It will have to take anti-rejection drugs for the rest of its life, of course. But that would be a small price to pay if the animal were a valuable one with potential use for breeding, research or some other important function."

One in five motorists has sex while driving

Motorists lusting for feels at the wheel share more than conversation with their passengers — one in five has sex while driving.

An amazing 46 percent of drivers admit having "intimate contact" according to a recent study by the American Automobile Group. Motorists said they cannot resist ogling attractive fellow drivers either.

"I am startled to many people owned up to having sex at the wheel," said police officer David Williams. But the shocked cop added that sex is only one of the distractions which put the country's 150 million drivers at risk.

AEROBICS CLUB —FOR SMOKERS ONLY!

By RICK SLATTERY
Weekly World News

LOS ANGELES — Brainy Californian Jeff Cappleman has given a new twist to an old idea that could make him rich beyond his wildest dreams: He's created Club PUFFS, an aerobics club for smokers!

PUFFS stands for Partners Unwilling to Forfeit Smoking. Members proudly call themselves PUFFers. Their motto is, "When you work out, light up!"

And what sparked a lofty idea in his fertile but brainy noggin? Jeff, a wrestling stalwart that 15 years ago, after nine hours from Jeff is opening three more Los Angeles area clubs and plans to franchise his "smokin' hot" nationwide.

"It's an incredible overnight success," declared Jeff, a three-pack a day smoker. "I rented a vacant store, printed up some handbills and in just four days I had 300 people signed up.

"The really surprising thing is that none of the members is really what you'd call a 'pucker.' Sure, they're a bit overweight, but most Americans are.

"But for the most part, they're just ordinary people who believe they can stay in shape even if they happen to be addicted to cigarettes."

Jeff, who's smoked at least two packs of unfiltered cigarettes a day since he was 14, Club PUFFS is a godsend.

"Hey! Smokers are people, too, you know," computer programmer Perdue says. "But just because I enjoy smoking, I'm looked at like some kind of public enemy. Smoking is banned on airplanes, in stores, restaurants and public places. I can't even smoke at my office anymore.

"What appealed to me about Club PUFFS is that it's a place that allows me to smoke whenever I want to — even while I'm working out and get some myself in shape. No one gripes because they're smoking, too."

Slim, trim 15-year-old secretary Donna Burt makes no bones about why she joined Club PUFFS. "I'm addicted to smoking and I'm proud of it. I'm not ashamed to admit it. I'm not going to let anyone tell me I can't smoke. I'm not going to let anyone tell me I can't smoke. I'm not going to let anyone tell me I can't smoke

Men's brains shrink faster than women's!

DETROIT, Mich. — Men's brains shrink faster than women's as they get older, a new study reveals.

Scientists don't know why people lose brain tissue as they age — and they're fascinated because men have greater shrinkage.

Menfolk eagerly take out the trash when gals in skimpy suits stop by!

— Katherine Craven

ROCKHAMPTON, Australia — Men here don't drag their feet when it's time to take out the trash — because the garbage trucks are manned by beautiful, bikini-clad women!

"Our beautification committee put up trees and park benches last year, but we finally decided to do something that really added some beauty to our town," city official Allen Bourne told reporters. "Those Garbage Gals are a sight to behold."

And he never has to worry about men leaving their garbage out by the curbs and ready to be picked up," he said. "Most men want to help the ladies throw the trash bags into the trucks."

Bourne said the city hasn't had any trouble getting women to take the jobs.

"There were only a few hopefuls every morning and we got a pretty good," he said. "A lot of females are into fitness nowadays and this is a job that lets them work outdoors and get plenty of exercise.

"Quite frankly, we had to turn down twice as many job applicants as we hired."

But not everyone in town is happy with the sexy workers.

"We think it's a disgrace that women would show their bodies while performing a city service," said Katherine Craven, who has formed a group to protest the Garbage Gals.

"It's very much in favor of women taking jobs that men have monopolized for many years, but they shouldn't be doing it in such skimpy outfits."

But the shapely sweepers who work on the garbage trucks say they want Mrs. Craven to butt out.

"I think she's just jealous over all the attention we're getting," said attendant Becky Hansen. "All we're after do our jobs well and it's none of her business what we wear while we're doing it."

And the men of Rockhampton wholeheartedly agree with Becky.

"This is the best idea our city has ever had," said businessman Wally Gilliard. "I wish these ladies would pick up the garbage in my neighborhood every day instead of once a week."

FEARLESS Anna Taylor left shore in the 160-pound oak barrel she used to tumble over the magnificent waters of Niagara Falls above

First person over Niagara Falls in a barrel — was a WOMAN!

By EDWARD DOYLE
Weekly World News

The first person with guts enough to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel was a woman — and she couldn't even swim!

She was Anna Edson Taylor, a 43-year-old widow who decided that conquering the falls would bring her fame and fortune.

In October 1901, she was ready to try her luck in a 160-pound oak barrel that stood 4½ feet high and was 3 feet across. Inside it was equipped with cushions and a leather harness to hold her in place.

A 100-pound anvil was anchored to the bottom to keep it upright in the water.

News of the stunt brought thousands of spectators to the falls — and Anna didn't disappoint them. She appeared for her public dressed in a long, black full-skirted dress plus a wide brimmed hat with a jaunty feather.

The daredevil widow told her admirers, "I'll not say goodbye, because I am coming back."

She changed into a shorter skirt and then crawled into her barrel.

Set adrift in the swift, raging current, the barrel floated upright for nearly a mile then plunged over the roaring 176-foot-high Horseshoe Falls and disappeared from view.

It surfaced about a minute later and was pulled from the water. But it was so battered that its top had to be sawed off before Anna could be freed.

She was alive and conscious, but she talked incoherently at times. Amazingly, Anna's only injury from her ordeal was a cut on her head.

Her daredevil stunt earned her the nickname "Queen of the Falls" and she was showered with gifts and money.

But sadly her fame was fleeting — and it brought her no fortune at all.

During Anna later said she wouldn't repeat the stunt for a million dollars and wisely warned: "Nobody ought ever to do that again."

LAURINBURG, N.C. — Randy and Wanda Scraw's once-friendly divorce has erupted into a mud-slinging, name-calling battle royal — over custody of their precious teddy bears!

"We were working our everything as easy as pie till Wanda suddenly announced she wanted my bears, and that's when I blew my top," said outraged Randy, 30.

"I'll give her the house, I'll give her the car, I'll give her everything. But the teddy bears are mine and the only way that fruitcake will get them is over my dead body."

During their rocky 10-year marriage, the couple collected more than 150 teddy bears of all shapes and sizes, including one once owned by President Teddy Roosevelt — the man who gave the cuddly toy its name.

"Sure, the collection is worth a couple of thousand dollars, maybe more, but the money's not important," the ticked-off hubby told The News.

"Those bears are our family — the children we never had. You can't put a price tag on your children. And I certainly can't allow my crazy wife to get custody of them. She's just not a fit mother."

But determined Wanda, 32, has vowed to fight tooth and nail for their bear menagerie — setting the stage for one of the wackiest custody battles in history.

"I'm a woman and I've always been a good mother to those teddies," she insisted. "They're just like my own babies. The only thing I didn't do was carry them in my womb.

"Everybody knows that babies belong with their mother. They certainly don't [illegible] with their father. I can tell you that."

Wanda, a practical nurse, blames Randy's infatuation with the teddies for the break-up of their marriage.

Randy, on the other hand, said it broke his heart to see the way Wanda pampered the little things.

"She brushed them over and over again until they were as bald as billiard balls," he said. "I'd get tears in my eyes when I'd see where she'd brushed all the fur off their bodies.

HOUSEWIFE GETS TRUCKER'S HEART — & HIS BAD HABITS!

She smokes cigars, drinks beer & watches pro wrestling on TV!

By JOE BERGER
Weekly World News

SYDNEY, Australia — Easygoing Angelina Padrak was a prim and proper housewife till surgeons transplanted a man's heart into her chest — and turned her into a beer-chugging, cigar-chomping slob!

"They might as well have given me a sex-change operation, the way I'm acting now," flabbergasted Angie told reporters for a prominent health journal here.

"Before the operation, I couldn't stand the taste of beer, and there was no way I'd ever smoke a cigar. Now I just can't get enough of them. It seems like all I want to do is sit around smoking and drinking and watching the wrestling matches on TV."

Frantic Angie, 35, a convinced she inherited her bizarre behavior from the rough-and-tumble truck driver whose heart she received in April of 1987.

"I'm not even supposed to know whose heart I got, but I did a little checking on my own," confessed the hapless housewife.

"I found out who the donor was and talked to his family — and sure enough, he loved his beer and his cigars and his wrestling matches.

"Don't get me wrong. I'm grateful his heart is keeping me alive. But he sure willed me some bad habits along with it."

And rattled Angie isn't the only one who's upset by the mind-boggling turn of events.

Her mild-mannered hubby Mirko has threatened to move out of the couple's suburban home if Angie doesn't change her ways.

"Before her operation, Angie used to have her lady friends over for tea parties, for Pete's sake," said the flustered hubby. "Now she sits in front of the TV all day, guzzling beer and screaming her head off at those idiot wrestlers.

"The way she stinks up the house with her cheap cigars — I think she's more man than she is woman now. She's sure not the dainty, pretty thing I married seven years ago."

Even Angie's surgeon admits his stogie-puffing patient has taken on a totally different personality since her transplant.

"I just can't understand it," said dumbfounded Dr. Hansel Van der Woort.

"We can only hope it's a temporary identity crisis brought on by the trauma of surgery. If it isn't, I don't know what we can do to help her."

Only Angie's stepbrother Bou, 19, seems pleased by his sis's amazing transformation. "Now I've got the big brother I've always wanted," he laughed. "Next week I'm taking her bear hunting. That'll make a real man out of her."

HUBBY Mirko says he won't put up with her Angie's bizarre behavior for much longer

PSST! HEY GALS...

WEEKLY WORLD NEWS SPECIAL EDITION!

How to hang on to your guy!

By ROBERT CUNNINGHAM

Gals who want to hang on to their guys had better forget about keeping the house tidy or whipping up yummy dinners.

The key to keeping a man coming back for more is to keep yourself looking like a glamour gal, says a top European fashion model. No man wants to come home to a gal if she looks like a scrubwoman.

"I just make a point of looking after my best assets. It's like an insurance policy.

"Take care of yourself — and he will take care of you," advises the beauty, who has dated many of the world's most eligible bachelors.

Here are her other tips for keeping a man from straying:

1 Flattery is the best policy. Make a fuss over your guy by picking out his good points and praising him on them.

Even if your man's a fat slump he has to have some attractive features. "It might be his hair, his body or his eyes. Tell him he looks great."

2 Never chew your nails. Guys may not mention your nails, but they notice them. And the one thing no man likes is a hand with chewed up fingernails. And as long as you're going to tidy up your fingernails, do the same for your toenails.

3 Be careful how you talk. Guys like gals who look like ladies and ACT like ladies. You might think you're cool letting out a curse word or two, but your man will think you've got no class.

4 Makeup is fine, but the Tammy Faye Bakker look is a no-no. Men want to see the real woman.

5 If you're single, don't start giving your girlfriends the "by talk." Telling him how much you love kids and how you'd love to have a family of your own is about to give your man maximum heat. Trapping a man into marriage is fine, but making him feel trapped by talking about kids and family is bound to make him start wondering about other gals.

6 Never tell your man about your past romances. No guy wants to be part of a long list, especially when it concerns his lady. He wants you to look good to other guys, but he doesn't want to know that he's the last in a long line to hold your hand.

7 Be sexy, but don't be a tramp. Low-cut gowns are O.K. for dresses playing blonde bombshells, but it's no way for a lady to dress.

Showing a little bit of cleavage or a little bit of leg is great for sparking a guy's imagination. But showing him all the goodies in the store is a definite NO.

8 Keep him laughing. A good sense of humor is more attractive. And don't forget to laugh at his jokes, too.

9 Don't be obvious — even with your special guy. No man likes a woman who ever flirts in public. It makes her look cheap and desperate. You can make your guy know you're interested by giving him space, meaningful looks and standing or sitting

SMART women recognize that keeping up their appearance is one of the most important things they can do to keep their guy from wandering.

TUTIN, Italy — A cheerful chimp named Picolina is so crazy about kids that trusting moms invite the remarkable monkey into their homes night after night — to baby-sit their children!

And incredibly, Picolina's tickled clients swear she's the best darn sitter they've ever had.

"People may think I'm nuts, but I leave my kids in that chimp's hands and never worry for a moment," said busy school teacher Tina Lago.

"She feeds and plays with them and even gives them baths. That's more than any scatterbrained teenager could ever do.

"But the most important thing is, Picolina loves my little Salvatore and Teresa and they love her.

"The children start giggling and jumping up and down the minute they see her coming up the walk."

The gentle chimpanzee got her start in the baby-sitting game six years ago when animal park owners Enzo and Irena D'Amico noticed the way their primate pal took to their little girl Gina.

"We'd raised Picolina from a baby," adoring Irena recalled.

"We thought she might be so jealous we'd have to get rid of her.

"But it turned out that Picolina loved Gina as much as we did. She watched us feed the baby and change her and bathe her and she was always around begging to help. They became such great friends that Gina would cry her eyes out whenever Picolina wasn't around to play with her.

"We could go out on the town at night and know that our baby was perfectly safe and happy with the chimp looking after her."

"Then the little rascal has proven so reliable that even the pediatrician down the street uses her baby-sitting services two or three times a month.
